18 KILLED IN TWO WRECKS

Passenger Trains Collide on New Orleans & Northwestern Railway—Victims Burned to Death—Western Freight Crash.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—Nine known dead and twenty injured is the result of a tail-end wreck this morning of a passenger train on the New Orleans & Northwestern Railway.

Both trains were southbound. The forward train was the Hattiesburg local. Everybody in the two rear coaches were either killed or injured. A majority of the dead are white.

The wreck occurred at 8 o'clock this morning and at 9:30 the dead had not all been taken out of the wreck. One coach is wedged between two others in such a way that the rescue of the bodies is very difficult. Fire started as soon as the wreck occurred but was at once extinguished.

Littlewoods, the place where the wreck took place, is a water tank on the Northeastern road with neither telegraph or telephone connection.

NINE BURNED TO DEATH IN FREIGHT WRECK

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BORIE, Wyo., Nov. 11.—Nine persons are known to have lost their lives and three were seriously injured as the result of a runaway freight train crashing into an engine on the Union Pacific railroad early to-day.

Going down a steep grade, freight train No. 2223 got beyond control and ran away for seven miles. With a deafening crash the engines came together. Thirty cars were piled in a heap and immediately caught fire.

The dead were: Engineer Schley, Fireman Christen, Conductor Murphy and three unknown men.

The bodies of Engineer Schley and that of an unknown man were taken from the debris, but it is reported the other four men were burned in the flames.

HARVARD GAME TICKETS SOLD WITH A RUSH

Hundreds Who Gathered at State Street Office Are Disappointed.

Five thousand graduates failed to obtain tickets to next Saturday's Harvard-Dartmouth football game when the sale of 10,000 tickets to graduates closed at No. 97 State street this afternoon. There were over 1,000 men in line who went away disappointed. Most of them held orders from other graduates.

The doors at No. 97 State street were opened at 9 o'clock. But the line began to form as early as 5:40, the first person on the job being an office boy employed by John W. Emery of West Medford, who has an office at No. 53 State street. Later in the morning Mr. Emery showed up and took the place at the head of the line so jealously guarded for him by the faithful office boy.

Other men had office boys or messengers waiting for them to take places in the line and do the actual buying.

It was an imposing line which stretched away from No. 97. It extended from the doorway up State street to Kilby, along Kilby to Doane, half-way down Doane street and then doubled back on itself. When the doors were opened at 9 o'clock the last man in the double line was just opposite Mr. Emery, the head man at the ticket door.

Every graduate was allowed all the tickets he wanted, providing he had proper credentials for them. He was allowed to buy four tickets on each application and he could present all the bona fide graduates' applications he could get together.

When many of the applicants saw the length of the line they induced friends up toward the head to take their applications. This bunched all the applications well up in the first third of the line. So he took in the first third of the line. One of the first ten men at the door had fourteen applications. So he took away a block of fifty six tickets. Another man took away thirty-six.

It is estimated that the first 300 men averaged twenty to twenty-five tickets apiece, which would eat up the whole extra allowance of 7,000.

WIFE SENDS MORSE LUNCH

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse, accompanied by her son, Henry, called at the Tombs to-day to see her husband. After a short talk with him she left the prison and went to a restaurant across the street. There she ordered a roast chicken, some soup and vegetables for her husband. While she was leaving the restaurant Mrs. Morse met four men who were being taken to the Federal prison at Atlanta, where her husband must serve his term of fifteen years.

DENSE FOG TIES UP NEW YORK SHIPPING

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Heavy fog enveloped New York's rivers and bays today and there were several marine accidents as a result. The three-masted schooner Clifton Waite went ashore in the Sound on the southeast of Hart's Island. The crew were brought to this city on a tug. Incoming steamships were held up at Sandy Hook and outgoing liners delayed their departure.

WOMAN CREMATED IN A LUMBER YARD FIRE

POLICE INVESTIGATION LEADS TO BELIEF SHE WAS DEMNETED.

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 11.—Police investigation into the cremation to-day of Sarah Lopes and the setting fire to piles of lumber in a lumber yard in this city have caused them to believe that the woman was demented and that she set fire to her own clothing and lay down upon it and made it her funeral pyre.

The fire occurred shortly after midnight and two policemen stumbled over the nude body of the woman near a pile of burning wood.

From the fact that she was dying at the time that she was found and because her burning clothing was found nearby, it was thought for some hours that she was the victim of fire fiends.

It has been found that Sarah Lopes left her home, No. 630 South Main street, at 5 o'clock last evening and went to the house of Charles Runcamper, where she told one of the children that her neighbors were going to kill her. She told the frightened child not to be alarmed if she never came back.

Then she went, it is believed, to the lumber yard, where she either set fire to her own clothing or smoked her pipe as she reclined on the wood. The pipe was found near the spot where the woman's charred clothing was found.

Mrs. Lopes had been missing from her home at No. 630 South Main street since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She lived there with her son-in-law. Her relatives could find no trace of the missing woman and had no knowledge of her fate until notified that she was dying in the Rhode Island Hospital.

How long she had been in the lumber yard of Fred Hovey on Tockwotton street is unknown. Neither have the police been able to learn how she came to wander there. She may have gone there of her own will or been lured to the spot by some unknown man or men.

There have been several incendiary fires recently and when the alarm was sounded for the blaze in the Hovey lumber yard Police Lieutenant Robbtee at once detailed Patrolmen Gormley and McNamee to search for any suspicious person.

The policemen were searching among the lumber piles when they heard feeble moans. Guided by the sound they reached the spot where Mrs. Lopes was writhing upon the ground.

She was unable to speak. The policeman saw that she was in a critical condition, and hurried her to the hospital. Surgeons failed to get any information from the woman which would give a clew to her assailants if she is the victim of foul play.

Mrs. Lopes was a widow, and in the neighborhood where she lived had long been regarded as somewhat eccentric. The fire in the lumber yard was extinguished by firemen without difficulty in a few moments, and the property damage was trifling.

IS RULED OFF SCHOOL BALLOT

City Solicitor Claud L. Allen of Melrose made a ruling to-day that the name of George E. Damon should not go upon the caucus ballot of the Republican party of Melrose as a candidate for the school board for one year because there was no vacancy when he filed his papers. Dr. E. C. Fish, a member of the school board, tendered his resignation to take effect January 1 after the papers of Damon had been filed.

According to City Solicitor Allen the Board of Aldermen has the right to fill any vacancy which might occur after a member of the board who resigns has served two years.

MAKE SWEEP OF BLUE RIBBONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The entries of Horatio N. Bain and his wife of the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, made a clean sweep of the blue ribbons in the first three events judged to-day.

Mr. Bains's horse Alcina Robbins was returned the winner in class six for three-year-old fillies. In class five, for two-year-old stallions, the first prize was awarded to his horse Robbins, and Mrs. Bain captured first honors in class seven for two-year-old fillies with her entry Akela Wickliffe.

WEDDING AT ST. LEO'S CHURCH

In St. Leo's Church, Dorchester, today, Frederic J. Crosby of Roxbury was married to Mary J. Lawless of Dorchester, Rev. E. J. Dolan of Avon, a cousin of the groom, officiating.

The best man was James A. Flinn, and the bridesmaid was Anna Lawless, a sister of the bride. The ushers were John F. Dever, Jr., T. A. Quinlan, Fred E. Johnson and W. R. Kerrigan. The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Lawless, No. 1 2 Kerwin street, Dorchester.

DESPONDENT DRINKS POISON

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Ethel Kaplan Shapiro, wife of Samuel Shapiro of Worcester, drank insect poison in a stateroom on the Joy liner Edgemont while the boat was on the way from New York to this city.

She had left home and tried to earn her own living. She had not prospered and was in deep despondency. A stewardess on the boat heard her groaning and went to her assistance. She was given an antidote, but was unconscious when the steamship reached this port. She was hurried to the hospital, where heroic treatment by staff physicians saved her life. It is said that she will recover.

MORE BODIES FOUND IN GUNNESS DEATH FARM

GRAVE REVEALS NEW SECRETS OF MURDER PLANT—WITNESS SAYS WOMAN IS ALIVE.

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 11.—A startling development in the Lamphere murder case was developed that more human bones were exhumed on the Gunness farm early this week. Deputy Sheriff Marr, with Daniel K. Hutson, one of the star witnesses in the case of the defence, acting under instructions, visited the location given by Julius Truelson, the man whose alleged confession of complicity in the Gunness crimes was repudiated, and found a grave dug in exactly the manner as those in which the other bodies were found.

The hole was four feet five inches deep after the loose dirt had been shoveled out, and Deputy Marr declares that bones were found in the excavation, and it is believed that three ribs, apparently those of a man, and fragments of other bones, apparently human, were found near the spot, as though they had recently been dropped there.

Bar Pastor as Witness.

The law of Indiana providing that in a criminal case a spiritual adviser may not testify against the accused strengthened the hand of the defence.

Rev. E. A. Schell, who obtained a partial confession from Lamphere following the arrest of the man immediately after the fire at Brookside farm house, will not be called by the State.

Lamphere is declared to have told Dr. Schell that he had been in fear of Mrs. Gunness for a long time because he was convinced that she intended to take his life. It was through the minister that the story came before the public of Lamphere's [illegible] during the day for several weeks in the belief that Mrs. Gunness was after him.

The theory of the State at that time was that Lamphere being in terror of his own life had fired the Gunness house in a frenzy of fear and drunkenness. There is no doubt that the defence has been much strengthened by recently discovered witnesses.

The man Lamtright who swears that he saw Mrs. Gunness on the same date that Hutson saw her, is quite as positive in his statements as Hutson is. He insists that there is no doubt about Mrs. Gunness being alive and believes that she is in Michigan City.

It is not unlikely that Joseph Maxson will be called on to tell what he knows.

Lectures on Death Farm.

This man who was so intimately connected with Mrs. Gunness during her life and was near at hand after she was found dead has been lecturing throughout the country on the Gunness farm tragedy, speaking in school houses and halls. The most striking thing about Maxson's lectures is his insistence that Mrs. Gunness is not dead, and it has been observed in the local press that Maxson seems to be more certain on this point than on other person.

The special venire of twenty-five men sworn in yesterday will probably be exhausted without completing the jury, nine being examined during the forenoon session to-day without one being selected to serve. Every one of the men excused declared his possession of a fixed belief as to whether Mr. Gunness was alive or dead, and questioning of the jurors after they had been excused for cause showe that all of them believed the murderess living.

The completion of the jury is considered likely by both State and defence to require until to-morrow night. If it becomes necessary to summon another special venire a longer time will be required.

The exact terms of the settlement of the contest to break the will of Walter F. Baker, the Boston clubman and Harvard graduate, who died under mysterious circumstances, were made public for the first time this afternoon.

Baker's estate of $450,000 is divided as follows: Harvard University, $150,000; Mrs. Helen Fry [illegible] $150,000; Edwin F. Baker, brother, $150,000. As a result of the settlement the fight over the division of the estate [illegible] all the terms of the settlement were kept secret [illegible].

DRUGGED WOMAN TOOL OF BLACKMAILER BAND

FRIENDS OF MRS. READ, HELD IN DYNAMITE CASE, TALK OF PLOT.

DENVER, Nov. 11.—That Mrs. Allen F. Read, the Denver woman who attempted to extort $20,000 from Mrs. Genevieve Chanler Phipps, the wealthy society leader, threatening destruction by dynamite to her and to her child, Helen, unless she complied with the demand, will have the support of her husband and friends in this city should it become necessary to defend her act in the criminal courts, is evident from the arrangements already under way to trace, through detective agencies, her wanderings since leaving Buffalo Park, Colo., three weeks ago, to attend at Pittsfield, Mass., the funeral of her father, George Campbell, a woolen manufacturer.

That she will not be allowed to go free without its being proven that she acted from an insane impulse at a time when she was entirely unaccountable to herself or to others is just as evident from steps taken by Mrs. Phipps's divorced husband, Lawrence C. Phipps, the Pittsburg millionaire, who late last night had his attorney, Gerald Hughes, request the police authorities to rearrest Mrs. Read and hold her pending further investigation of the attempt at blackmail.

Prosecution Threatened.

In an interview published to-day, Mrs. Phipps is credited with saying she will prosecute Mrs. Read and that she believed formal proceedings had already been begun.

When Chief of Police Armstrong questioned Mrs. Read, after her arrest Monday, she referred several times to a woman she called Mme. Leroy. She said that she expected to meet Mme. Leroy at the Union depot at a certain hour that day, and in order to investigate this assertion the chief detailed detectives to escort her to the station, but no such person appeared.

The fact that so much of Mrs. Read's story has been found to be true has convinced the police that there must have been another woman in the affair, who gave to Mrs. Read the name of Mme. Leroy.

It is believed by Mrs. Read's friends, and the police do not deny it as a possibility, that Mrs. Read met some woman while returning West, perhaps a professional blackmailer, who took advantage of her weakened condition, aggravated by the use of drugs to alleviate bodily pain, and prevailed upon her to enter into a plot to blackmail Mrs. Phipps.

Hunt for Strange Woman.

Mrs. Read, during a rambling talk, mentioned that she and Mme. Leroy had arranged to go to Europe together. A theory is that the so-called Mme. Leroy might be some international adventuress, and communication has gone forth from Mrs. Read's friends to ascertain if it is known that any foreign adventuress is sojourning in this country at present.

As evidence that Mrs. Read had become the tool of some one, it is stated that diamonds and rubies valued at $3,500 and bank notes to amount of $300, that she is said to have had when she left Pittsfield, are missing.

It appears that Mrs. Reed never was addicted to the use of drugs, but that she would use morphine, when prescribed by her physician, to alleviate her sufferings. It may be that while returning from Pittsfield, she was seized with pains and began using drugs; that she took more than the usual amount, rendering her unaccountable, so that she of her own accord conceived the plot against Mrs. Phipps.

On the other hand, her friends argue that Mrs. Reed might have been drugged by blackmailers who met her on the train, and while she was in this condition they may have hypnotically suggested the plot to blackmail Mrs. Phipps.

The fact that the police have been unable to find the place where Mrs. Reed got the dynamite with which she threatened the life of Mrs. Phipps leads her friends to believe that it was given to her, perhaps by blackmailers.

LIFE IN PRISON FOR BROTHERS

WORCESTER, Nov. 11.—Nicola Chiocchio and Felice Chiocchio, brothers of Leominster were found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in the Superior Criminal Court to-day. Both were sentenced by Judge Gaskill to State Prison for life, one day in solitary confinement.

The crime for which the brothers were convicted was the shooting, December 12, 1907, of Paolo Priviti in Leominster during the noon hour when the employes of the Sterling Comb Factory were eating dinner.

RICKER'S HEAD FALLS AT HALL

Everett W. Ricker, a son of former city collector James W. Ricker and an employe of the collector's department since October 6, 1887, was discharged to-day by City Collector Charles S. Brown.

Ricker, it is understood, was given the alternative of submitting to a reduction in his salary from $1,200 to $600 or have his connection with the city payroll severed.

There was considerable comment at City Hall to-day over the discharge from the fact that City Collector Brown was appointed a clerk in the collecting department on January 6, 1883, by former City Collector Ricker, father of the man discharged to-day.

FATHER FINDS LOST BROOD AT BOSTON HOME

Four Little Children Came All the Way from Chicago to Meet Him.

NEAR-TRAGEDY ON ARRIVAL

Mary Fornstein, nine years old, was christened "the little mother" by women passengers on the train on which she, her two sisters and brother travelled all the way from Chicago to Boston, because of her care and solicitude shown every minute on the long journey.

She expected that their father, Morris Fornstein of No. 431 Norfolk street, Somerville, would meet them at the North station last evening when the train rolled in. But the letter sent by Chicago relatives, notifying him of their departure, had not arrived. So the little Mary, Samuel, eight years old; Rebecca, five, and Ida, three found themselves all alone in the world.

Mary was undismayed. Her little heart is big and brave and she huddled her little charges together, while she wandered around the big building looking for "Papa."

Mother in Sanitarium.

But her father was at home joyfully expecting his children, but not knowing they were already in Boston. Their mother is an invalid and in a sanitarium. But if Mary did not find "Papa" she found a friend in Patrolman Walsh, who saw the four children asleep beside a radiator.

Mary told him her story and he took them all to the Chardon Street Home, where they were put in the custody of Max Mitchell of the Jewish Charitable Societies. To-day Jacob Fornstein, their uncle, read of the arrival of the "Little Mother" and her brood and went to the Chardon street institution. He took them all to their father's house, where they found a joyful refuge in the loving arms of their grandmother, Mrs. Etta Fornstein.

Little Mother's Story of Trip.

Mary told all about her journey from Chicago to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day. She is a beautiful child and as intelligent as she is pretty.

"They told me," said she, "that papa had sent for us and Robbie took us to a station in Chicago and we all got in a car there and he kissed us goodby and went away. By and by the train started and before it was dark we looked out of the car windows and saw such wonderful sights.

"We went by buildings as if we were flying. We saw so many trees and every now and then a lot of water. It was just grand until it got dark when they lit the lamps and we snuggled up together and thought about papa and grandma.

"We didn't know when we would get to Boston. They said it was such a long ways off and would take so long to get there. But we didn't mind. Everybody was kind and had a smile.

"Sammy Beccay and Ida soon got sleepy and I put them to bed. I didn't go to sleep until they had. It was awfully late. Nobody was up but me and the conductor. And he was as nice to me as could be.

"In the morning we had breakfast, and there was such a lot more to see. Some ladies took Beccy and Ida for a walk through the train. They said I was a 'little mother.' I guess I was. You know my own mamma is sick, and I have to be.

"When we got to Boston I expected to see papa, but couldn't find him, although I kept walking about and looking. By and by a kind lady said she would take us home with her until we found him. But that great big nice policeman came up and said he would care for us. So he took Beccy and Ida by the hand, and I walked behind.

"We had a nice time where he took us until Uncle Jacob came. Then we were taken home to grandma, and papa will be here soon to see us. I shall tell him how good to us everybody has been."

CAME FROM CHICAGO ALONE.

The little Fornstein brood, Mary, "the little mother," in the centre, with Ida on her knees, Rebecca in back of her and young Samuel by her side.

Does It Do The Work?

Soap that does is cheap. Soap that does not, is dear.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap DOES THE WORK.

A five cent cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap will last longer and do more work than two bars of ordinary laundry soap, costing, say, 3½ cents each; or three bars of cheap soap costing 2½ cents apiece.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is the cheapest soap you can buy—because it is the best value.

It saves time; and time is money.

It saves labor; and labor is worth money.

It saves clothes; and clothes cost money.

The naphtha in it LOOSENS the dirt; the soap CLEANSES.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is so much better than any other laundry soap that it is worth your while to go ten blocks out of your way to get it.

But it is not necessary to do that—it is almost a certainty that your grocer sells it.

RUSHES TO AID MRS. DUNPHY WITH LOVE SUIT

Mrs. Whittemore Who Accuses Giles Declares She Will Save Wife of Physician.

That she can save Mrs. Martha M. Dunphy, wife of Dr. John Dunphy, from the charges of larceny of jewelry and stock certificates, made against her by Charles E. Giles, Jr., in Chicago, is the declaration to-day of Mrs. Gertrude A. Whittemore. Mrs. Whittemore has filed a suit against Giles for $20,000 damages for alleged breach of promise to marry which her lawyers are to-day pushing.

Attorney James W. Milne filed the suit for Mrs. Whittemore, who is a pretty widow of thirty-five with a son fifteen years of age. She is employed in an important place by one of Boston's largest candy concerns.

To-day she made the statement that she would save Mrs. Dunphy from Giles. She has the evidence, she says. Giles says Mrs. Dunphy robbed him, and she is now on her way back to Chicago a prisoner.

Claims He Secured Her Money.

"My client, Mrs. Whittemore, according to her own words, received scores of marriage proposals from Giles, but he kept putting her off every time that the date for the wedding drew near," said Attorney Milne, discussing the case with a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day.

"Mrs. Whittemore was fascinated by Giles and believed everything he said until she finally discovered that she had been deluded. Mrs. Whittemore also claims that during her acquaintance with Giles he secured about $4,000 from her which he never paid back.

"It was in 1901 that Mrs. Whittemore met Giles. She was working for her father Mr. Angell, as book-keeper in his Dorchester grocery. Giles was in the milk business and used to call at the store. Mrs. Whittemore was a widow at that time.

Renewed Courtship.

"Giles's wife secured a divorce from him on January 14, 1904, on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment. When this was accomplished Giles went back to Mrs. Whittemore and said that he would marry her at the end of two years as allowed by law.

"Finally Giles told Mrs. Whittemore they would go to California on a trip and be married in that State.

"They left Boston on January 17, 1905, with a tourist party of twelve. Mr. Giles found various excuses, and kept putting off the marriage ceremony. Suddenly it dawned on Mrs. Whittemore that Giles did not intend to keep his promise. She came home Giles remained in Chicago.

"Afterwards Mrs. Whittemore was persuaded by Giles to assign a mortgage for $2,000, which she held on her father's store. He foreclosed the mortgage some time later, and Mrs. Whittemore's father was practically put into the street.

"On February 7, 1907, she learned that Giles had been married to his house-keeper, Mrs. Bessie Frost. Mrs. Whittemore was prostrated."

Mr. Giles is a party to still a third law suit which is now pending in the Middlesex Courts. He is trying to have the will of his father, Charles E. Giles, broken on the ground of undue influence. The elder Giles was in the wholesale milk business and when he died last Summer his estate was valued at $80,000. He cut his son off with $1,000. He also left $1,000 to his other children, Mrs. Mary L. Galletly and Fred E. Giles of Somerville, George E. Giles of Melrose. They all are interested in breaking the will for the bulk of the estate was left to their mother, Mrs. Harriet M. Giles. The elder Giles lived at No. 24 Webster street, East Somerville.

THIRD ARREST IN FIGHT BUNCO

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Charged with complicity in swindling a Scranton, Pa., hotel keeper, Frederick Holzenagel, out of $15,000 in a make-believe prize fight in Bridgeport, Ct., more than two months ago, Edward Morris, for whom the police had been looking ever since, has been held in $1,000 bail. LABOR MEN DECLINE TO SEE PRESIDENT

Turn Down White House Invitation That Did Not Include Gompers.

DENVER, Nov. 11.—John Mitchell, James Duncan and Daniel J. Keefe have decided not to accept President Roosevelt's invitation to dine at the White House. Samuel Gompers, to whom no invitation was sent, declared that the snub of the President was a tribute to his work for labor. Other officers of the American Federation of Labor in session here have declared the invitation is part of a plan to divide the forces of organized labor so they would be weak in future contests.

Mitchell, Duncan and Keefe said they expected to be in Denver at the session of the Federation while the president's dinner was in progress. They say they cannot divine the president's purpose in calling them away from Denver in the middle of the annual convention. They think it would have a tendency to disrupt the forces of the organization and cannot see their way clear to accept.

They do not understand the leaving out of Samuel Gompers by the president. The whole membership of the convention is wrought up over the matter, although nothing is said in the convention openly.

John Mitchell said:

"I do not care to discuss the matter of the invitation. I do not care to impugn the President's motives in the slightest degree. All there is to it is that I have business that will keep me in Denver."

James Duncan said: "I have no controversy with the President and I don't wish to make any statement about the invitation. I shall be unable to accept it. We are here for a long session, and I will tell the President that, of course, I cannot get away."

Daniel J. Keefe said: "There is nothing in this to stir up trouble over. I merely cannot go at this time. It is perfectly patent that I will not accept the invitation. It would be strange to leave this convention to go to the Washington dinner."

ROOSEVELT TO HELP ROOT IN SENATE FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—New York State political matters pending and for the immediate future, including the identity of a successor to United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, are to be settled at a luncheon of New York politicians. It has been the custom for State Legislatures to choose United States Senators.

There will be present Secretary Elihu Root, National Committeeman William L. Ward, Vice-President-elect Sherman, State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff and others.

President Roosevelt has set his hand to the task of smoothing the way of Secretary Root from the State Department to the Senate as successor to Senator Thomas C. Platt. Mr. Ward has assured the President that the State Republican organization has accepted Mr. Root and the State leaders are working for him. It is likely that Mr. Root will be unopposed.

When asked as to the probability of President Roosevelt succeeding Platt, Mr. Ward said:

"President Roosevelt, six months ago, came to the decision that no combination of circumstances would induce him to become a candidate for election to the United States Senate from New York State to succeed Thomas C. Platt."

SCORES HURT IN POLICE CLASH WITH STUDENTS

BUDAPEST, Nov. 11.—A violent demonstration by Socialists occurred in the heart of the city here today. Scores were injured before the police with drawn swords were able to disperse the mob. The rioters are attempting to rally their scattered forces and are threatening another outbreak to-night.

The Socialists were led by student agitators, and they swept through several of the principal streets in a hand-to-hand clash with the police. After a prolonged struggle the police broke up the band, which retreated with a declaration that the demonstration would be repeated.

LAUNCH GREAT LLOYD LINER

STETTIN, Nov. 11.—American Ambassador David Jayne Hill christened the steamer George Washington as she slid from the ways into the muddy waters of Bredow Bay. The George Washington is the latest addition to the North German Lloyd fleet and will ply between Bremen and New York. She is of 27,000 tons and the largest German built ship in the world.

JOYCE OPENS CAMPAIGN.

Councilman Thomas M. Joyce will formally open his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the lower branch of the city government this evening in the Vine Street Church, Ward 17. President Leo McCullough of the Common Council will be the principal speaker.

Double Legal Stamps will be given with every purchase mornings until 2 o'clock noon at Wolf's, "My Clothier," corner Hanover and Portland streets. Single stamps thereafter.

SLEEPING GIRL SHOWS SIGNS OF AWAKENING

Mother Refuses to Permit the Doctors to Experiment With Electricity.

LOWELL, Nov. 11.—That Miss Luciana Piette, Lowell's sleeping girl, is likely to awaken at any time is now the belief of her relatives, friends and Dr. L. V. Rochette, who is in daily attendance at her bedside. The girl's mother, Mrs. Maxime Piette, to-day positively refused that any attempt be made to call the girl back to consciousness from her twelve-day slumber.

"When Luciana awakens it must be by the will of God alone," she says.

Several physicians were anxious to apply electricity in the manner prescribed by the French specialist, Charcot, but the mother sternly refused to permit them to experiment yesterday afternoon.

To-day the girl's slumber is markedly less heavy and profound than it has been, and her friends are hopeful that she will soon emerge from the powerful influence which so mysteriously overcomes her senses. This is her sixth such attack. Each succeeding attack was longer than its predecessor, but it is believed that this one may soon terminate.

Despite the mother's refusal to allow hypnotic suggestion to be used, several skilled in the occult have been with the girl, and it is believed that their efforts, covertly used, are being felt, and that Miss Piette will soon be restored to consciousness.

Mrs. Piette to-day said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter: "I believe that Luciana will not die in this sleep. She is more restless than she has been, and at times I have thought that she was almost conscious. I will not allow the doctors to experiment upon her, but Dr. Rochette gives her nerve medicine, and this, I think under God's will, is restoring her. I believe that she will soon awaken, but I will not hurry her back from her sleep."

SEVERED HAND SHOWN IN COURT IN $30,000 SUIT

LOWELL, Nov. 11.—In the prosecution of three damage suits against insurance companies by John J. Everson of Newton, in which the plaintiff demands more than $30,000 for injuries received in a fire, the severed hand of the complainant is one of the exhibits to the judge and jury in the Superior Court here.

Everson is suing the General Accident Fire and Insurance Company, Limited, of Perth, Scotland, for $10,000 for the loss of his right hand. He was engaged in the manufacture of tripolite near St. John, N. B., and lost his hand in a fire which was destroying a building in which he had fallen asleep. A furnace door, he says, fell on his hand and held him until the hand was burned so that it had to be amputated.

Dr. William T. Councilman, professor of pathology of Harvard, was a witness for the plaintiff in court yesterday afternoon when the severed hand was brought into court. He said that heat had caused the hand to take the claw-like appearance it presented.

FLORODORA GIRL SECRETLY WED CLUBMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Francis Gurney Smith, a member of several clubs of this city and sergeant of Troop A, has been the husband since August of Miss Elaine Van Selover, formerly an actress, of New York, and only a few persons knew it. The chances are that his friends would not know now that he is a married man if he had not been asked to make a statement about his wedding.

"There is not much to tell," Smith said. "Miss Van Selover and I were married in Jersey City on August 10. The family of my wife and my relatives knew of the ceremony before it was solemnized, but I am inclined to think that my friends did not know about it. I wanted to get established in business before I announced the wedding.

"Mrs. Smith has retired from the stage."

Mrs. Smith is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Selover of Owego, N. Y. She is an attractive blonde, and was in one of the famous "Florodora Sextettes," according to an intimate friend of Smith.

TOUR CONTEST VOTING KEEPS ALL HUSTLING

Ballots Pouring In by Thousands for Both Old and New Entries.

These are busy days in the BOSTON AMERICAN Free European Tour Contest.

With ballots coming in by thousands, new entries being received almost every day, and hundreds of inquiries for further information about the methods of voting coming in continually, both by mail and by telephone, it can easily be seen that the contest bids fair to develop into one of the most spirited newspaper contests EVER CONDUCTED IN NEW ENGLAND.

The BOSTON AMERICAN'S generous offer of thirty-six free tours of Europe to the winners is surely proving a big attraction to Sunday School teachers.

In several districts, where the voting heretofore has been comparatively light, clubs are being organized for the purpose of entering and supporting new candidates. The following, received yesterday, gives an idea of what is going on quietly in District No. 5, for example:

> European Tour Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN:
>
> Enclosed please find eighty-seven votes for Miss Catherine Coursey of Woburn, a teacher in St. Charles' Sunday School. Brace up, Woburn, and help the good cause along! Also remember to be sure and vote the right way. You will hear more from us later.
>
> JUST SUPPORTERS.

Miss Coursey has been standing seventh, with 170 votes, in the Woburn, Winchester and Stoneham district. The leader in that district is Miss Margaret T. Prest of Stoneham. Friends of Miss Coursey, it is promised, are preparing to make an active fight for her, and if possible to land her in the first place.

Newton and Brookline is another district in which much activity is promised before long. There are a number of active candidates from each, and a pretty fight between the two cities is promised.

Cambridge—District No. 7—also promises some surprises.

Voting in the contest is getting heavier each week. Likewise the number of special ballots being cast is increasing weekly, showing that persons other than contestants are gradually becoming more familiar with the easy and more satisfactory method of voting.

EARLY VOTING IS URGED BY ALL.

WED 40 YEARS, DIED TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—After living happily together for forty years, Daniel Troxell and his wife, Catharine, died within forty-eight hours. Their bodies will be buried in the same grave in Fairmount Cemetery, Newark, N. J.

The Troxells lived at No. 346½ Sussex avenue, Newark. Ten weeks ago Mrs. Troxell became ill. Her husband helped nurse her until he, too, was stricken, three weeks ago. Husband and wife lay in adjoining rooms until last Saturday, when Mrs. Troxell died. Almost at the moment of her death her husband called for her. Friends kept the news of her death from him and assured him that she was getting better. He seemed cheered for a brief time, but relapsed and died yesterday.

Troxell was sixty-five years old and his wife a year younger.

TWO LADIES' NIGHTS IN PAST 171 YEARS

The second ladies' night of the Charitable Irish Society, the second in 171 years when ladies have been invited to attend, was a most enjoyable and successful affair. It was held at the Hotel Brunswick last night. About 150 persons were present at the banquet. A special musical program was thoroughly appreciated, while addresses were made by several officers and members of the organization. President John F. Sullivan had charge of the formalities of the occasion, while James H. Devlin, Jr., was toastmaster.

CHECK FOR $500 IS WEDDING GIFT

Miss Beatrice Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Hall of No. 250 Westville street, Dorchester, to-day became the bride of Alton Frost of Brunswick, Me. The knot was tied by the Rev. Charles Stackpole of Waltham at the bride's home. Miss Alice Garnsey was bridesmaid and John Frost, a brother of the groom, best man. The couple received a check for $500.

The Remarkable Will of a Doctor

He Leaves the Secret of Life to His Children and the World.

One of the world's greatest physicians upon his death bed called his children about him and said: "When I die I will leave the secret of life as I have discovered it in my practice."

When they read his will it directed them to a safety vault which contained a large envelope marked thus: "The Secret of Life." Upon opening it they read: "Don't abuse the stomach." This profound thinker, after a long life of medicine, knew the stomach to be the throne of man.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will help you make a stomach healthy.

If it is worn out and lacks the fluids of digestion these tablets will take the place of such fluids.

If it is filled with poisonous juices, these tablets will neutralize and remove such poison.

If you cannot eat without agony, these tablets will show you how you can. If you will eat foolishly or drink excessively, or if business demands abuse of stomach, these tablets after meals will make such abuse light, for they take the hardship away from the stomach.

They are great digesters, filled with more powerful agents than the system can give. They go back into the blood after they have digested a meal, thereby increasing the ability of nature to take care of digestion without exhausting other organs.

High livers need feel no considerable hardship if they will eat one of these little tablets after a rich or late meal.

It is a splendid gift to the stomach and a good habit to form. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets sell for 50c per package at every drug store.

Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

DRIVE PARTY BOSSES FROM PUBLIC LIFE

—GOV. JOHN BURKE

Then Stop Special Privileges to Corporations, Says North Dakota Chief.

"NO PLACE LIKE THE WEST"

Governor John Burke of North Dakota, in Boston to attend the launching of the battleship bearing the name of the State he serves as chief executive, has some very pronounced views on public questions and he doesn't hesitate to give them.

"The West," he said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, replying to a series of questions concerning political and business conditions in North Dakota; "the West is all right as long as the East behaves itself.

"We raise our own foodstuffs, and the Wall street speculators will find their work cut out for them if they ever try to starve the farmers of North Dakota.

"Take the late panic for instance. Beyond having to wait a little longer for his money, something he was well able to do, the Western farmer didn't experience much of any trouble while the panic was in progress. That's the benefit of having an agricultural State.

Need New Crop of Men.

"There's too much rum and rottenness in public life to-day.

"The party boss should be killed off by direct legislation.

"Stop giving special privileges to railroads and other corporations.

"Raise a new crop of men to take the place of the masters—let us have independent thinkers and lots of 'em.

"Men and measures are of more importance than a mere party designation.

"We have a prohibition State. It has been dry for nineteen years, and we enforce the law.

"Taking away the power of the party boss, stopping the special privileges of corrupt corporations and driving the rum element out of the State has given North Dakota good times.

"Wins by "Square Deal."

"How do I account for the fact that the people elected me, a Democrat, while giving Taft 30,000 of a majority?

"Well, I've tried to give them a square deal, and I suppose they liked that kind of treatment.

"The country is all right. The trouble lies with the crooks that have run things to suit themselves."

"SPRAY" DAYS IN DIRE PERIL

After a terrible battle with wind and wave which lasted for over a week, the steam trawler Spray, Captain Michael Green, came into port to-day, over a week late, with a fare of 65,000 pounds of fine fish. But the lives of Captain Green and his crew were for days in balance against the $2,000 he got for his catch to-day.

Great anxiety had been felt here about the Spray, for it was known that when she left port on November 1 for the fishing banks her boilers were not in the best condition. It was feared that in the fierce storms that she encountered she would lose her power and founder in the trough of the sea.

"We had a mighty tough time of it," said the captain to-day. "For a week we were off George's Banks and right in the track of the trans-Atlantic liners. More than once they passed us so close that we could have tossed a biscuit aboard and the Cunarder Campania was so near that I spoke with her passengers.

"The only salvation for us during all of that time was that the weather was clear and we could see the ships coming and they could see us.

"When things got better last Monday we made up for lost time and got our fish in two days. That's going some after what we had been through."

BOYS TO HONOR REV. FR. GASSON

The students of Boston College will tender a reception in the college hall to Rev. Father Thomas I. Gasson, S. J., president of Boston College, to-morrow afternoon. In accordance with custom, the president of every Jesuit college has the privilege of setting apart the feast day of his patron saint as a holiday. The feast of St. Thomas, patron of the present incumbent of the rectorship, falls in the Christmas holidays, consequently the rector's holiday was transferred to the feast of St. Stanislaus, which will be celebrated Friday.

Addresses will be delivered in four languages by representatives from each college class. The entire faculty of Boston College and the priests attached to the Church of the Immaculate Conception will attend the exercises. It is probable that Father Gasson will respond to the addresses. The college orchestra and glee club, under the direction of Michael Earls, S. J., professor of the sophomore class, will furnish music.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—After one of the stormiest sessions in the history of the German Reichstag—a session that marks an epoch in the progress of free speech in the nation—Chancellor Von Buelow replied to the interpellations from the various bodies of the Reichstag to the effect that Emperor William had promised him that he would exercise greater caution in his public utterances in the future.

The Chancellor admitted that he could give no pledges or guarantees that the Emperor would hereafter take a smaller part in governmental affairs. For this reason his reply is considered unsatisfactory.

Von Buelow admitted that there was just grounds for complaint, but contended that the speakers had gone too far in attacking the Kaiser.

HUB CUSTOMS MEN BOOSTED IN SALARIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—As a result of his visit to the Boston Custom House and conference with custom officials last week, Assistant Secretary of Treasury Reynolds announced a number of promotions in the customs service at Boston, and said that he would probably soon make some new appointments. The list of promotions authorized is as follows:

D. S. Knowlton, secretary and chief clerk, from $2,700 to $3,000.

Hugh Hamill, clerk, $1,800 to $2,000.

John McArthur, clerk, $1,600 to $1,800.

Wallace L. Darling, clerk, $1,500 to $1,800.

Franklin G. Bixby, clerk, $1,400 to $1,600.

Miss Emma Batcheider, clerk, $1,400 to $1,600.

Mrs. Jennie N. Southwork, clerk, $1,200 to $1,400.

Edward D. McSweeney, clerk, $1,200 to $1,400.

Harry E. Grieger, clerk, $1,200 to $1,400.

Mrs. Eva M. Chickering, clerk, $1,000 to $1,200.

Joseph F. Scanlan, clerk, $1,000 to $1,200.

Isaac E. Pearson, clerk, $1,000 to $1,200.

Thomas M. Moriarty, assistant gager, $1,600 to $1,800.

Henry H. Potter, messenger, $1,000 to $1,200.

James S. Alexander, messenger, $720 to $840; John Gorham, messenger, $720 to $840; Charles McNichol, messenger, $720 to $840; Everett M. Bickmore, messenger, $720 to $840; Peter E. Auclaire, messenger, $720 to $840; William F. Plummer, laborer, $700 to $840; Michael E. McCarthy, laborer, $700 to $840; Charles F. King, laborer, $700 to $840. The aggregate raise in pay is $4,220 a year.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE NEAR COMPLETION

The new Gaiety Theatre on Washington street near Boylston is nearing completion, and is said to be the most fireproof of any place of amusement in Boston. It has been built under the very latest laws regarding the construction of playhouses. It is remarkable not only for solidity, but for the number of its exists and its wide escapes. The latter are all in the open, as the prevailing law requires.

The whole building is constructed on a generous scale as regards space for audience, players and stage and house attaches. It is also designed with an idea to provide unusual convenience not only for the audience but for those who entertain.

Even the chorus people and attaches will be provided with comforts unheard of in theatres a few years ago. It is expected that the doors of the New Gaiety Theatre will be opened on Monday afternoon, November 23, the beginning of Thanksgiving week. The general color scheme of the house is old mahogany and gold and the effect is most inviting. The arrangements for heating and ventilation are as near perfect as the science of modern building construction permits. The theatre is to be heated by the indirect radiation system, and it is possible to completely change the air in every part of the theatre every three minutes. The total seating capacity will be about 3,000, and despite the cost of the new house there will be no increase in the scale of prices for seats, which was so popular at the old Lyceum Theatre, upon the site of which the new house stands.

STEVENS CAMPAIGN COST HIM $1,550

General Hazard Stevens spent $1,550.55 in his campaign for election to Congress from the Tenth district, according to the returns filed at the office of the city clerk to-day. He was a candidate on a free trade platform, and received less than 1,500 votes.

Michael J. Murray, the unsuccessful opponent of Senator Gideon B. Abbott, spent $599.65 in his contest. Vincent Garro and Philip J. McGonagle, the Fitzgerald candidates for the House of Representatives in Ward 6, spent $125 each.

GALVIN CLAIMS ELECTION; ASKS BALLOTS SAVED

Candidate Against O'Connell for Congress Files Letter With Commissioners.

PARKER ALSO HEARD FROM

Demanding that all the ballots cast in the Tenth Congressional District be preserved in their original form in order that he may contest the election, J. Michael Galvin, the Republican candidate who was defeated by Congressman O'Connell by four votes, today filed with the Election Commissioners a communication in which he claims that he was legally elected to the office despite the result of the recount.

The written communication of Candidate Galvin follows:

"I, J. Mitchell Galvin of Boston, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth District, hereby notify you that I claim that I am legally elected to the office of Congress from said district and intend to contest the election of Joseph F. O'Connell to such office and demand that you retain the ballots cast November 3, 1908, for such office and the envelopes containing said ballots until the contest is determined.

Signed "J. MITCHEL GALVIN."

Former Attorney-General Parker, representing Galvin, also filed a communication making a similar request, stating that Mr. Galvin proposed to contest the election.

The filing of these communications is understood to be the preliminary steps of taking the fight to Washington, where the matter will be threshed out before the Congressional Committee on Elections. Galvin would not admit at noon to-day that he would take this action, but his friends assert that that is the purpose of the request to have the ballots saved.

J. E. DEAN OF CHICAGO DEAD

Muzzle Your Dog! Police Order Goes Into Effect To-day

Muzzling or Restraining of Dogs.
CITY OF BOSTON

How the dogs of the city appeared when their owners followed police order out to-day.

Muzzle your dog!

The official muzzling order was made public to-day in printed notices sent out by City Clerk John T. Priest and furnished to the police throughout Boston.

The policeman on your beat will tell you to muzzle your dog or keep him locked up in your house or yard or fastened with a leash when the dog appears on the public streets.

Violation of the police order may cost you a fine of not more than $25. There are 12,000 licensed dogs in Boston.

The order remains in force three months. Thus it expires January 19 next.

CHARITY GETS $55,000 LEFT 19 YEARS AGO

Was Left in Trust to E. W. Hoyt's Widow, Who Remarried.

LOWELL MANUFACTURER

Special to the Boston American.

LOWELL, Nov. 11.—By the will of E. W. Hoyt, the cologne manufacturer who died in 1889, $55,000 is left to Lowell charities.

Mrs. Hoyt, who married a second time and became the wife of Henry K. Felton, died last Saturday. It is expected that the bulk of her property, inherited from her first husband and said to amount to $300,000, will go to her second husband Felton.

When Hoyt died he left his property in trust to his wife, with the provision that she could dispose of it at her death as she pleased with the exception of the $55,000 to charity and some private bequests by Mr. Hoyt. These charities and other beneficiaries were not to be known till Mrs. Hoyt died.

The charitable beneficiaries are: Edson Orphanage, $10,000; Lowell Ministry-at-Large, $10,000; Lowell Old Ladies' Home, $10,000; Lowell Home for Young Women and Children, $10,000; Massachusetts Universalist Convention, $5000; United States General Universalist Convention, $5000; First Universalist Society of Lowell, $5,000.

Hoyt's will leaves $20,000 to his cousin, Samuel Lovering of this city, and smaller amounts to other relatives and friends.

Outside of these bequests Mrs. Felton could dispose of the Hoyt wealth as she pleased.

PROVIDENCE MAN IN FRANTIC HUNT FOR WIFE AND BABIES; ACCUSES RELATIVES.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 11.—Believing that his wife and children may have been stolen from him or that his wife while temporary insane wandered away with his children, Aubrey Goldey of this city to-day appealed to the police to help him find them.

"I must find my children," he said. "If their mother is deranged it is all the more urgent for me to find them at once. I don't know what may become of my children."

Goldey, who until last week kept a store at No. 1005 Eddy street, this city, is wild with anxiety. His wife disappeared on Oct. 24, but a letter he received from her has prevented his making his trouble public until this time.

Now he fears that the wife and children may have been kidnapped and are being concealed from him or that the woman wandered away when temporarily deranged.

Disappearance Mysterious.

"There is something mysterious about all this," said Goldey to-day. "I have been advised by certain relatives of my wife not to make this matter public and her letter and their advice kept me from appealing to the police until to-day.

"Now I am going to get all the help I can in my search for my wife and children. My wife had no reason to leave home. Her letter to me showed that she had none.

"My wife's relatives here will not help me to find her. I am very uneasy, for my wife has been complaining of violent headaches and I don't know what would become of her and the children if they wandered away where they had no friends. If they are with friends I should be informed at once."

The mother, only a girl of twenty-two years, left home October 24 with the children.

The next day she came to her sister-in-law's home in Bristol, Ct., told her to kiss the little ones good-bye and said she was going away with them.

The only explanation left her husband is a brief letter in which she said she could not stand it at home.

Left for Theatre; Disappears.

Mrs. Goldey had been discontented of late. She had been rather depressed ever since she recovered from typhoid fever a year ago. For the week previous to her final disappearance she had been absent from home for hours at a time, without giving Goldey any reasonable explanation where she had been.

Saturday, Oct. 24, she told him she was going out.

"I just can't stay at home," she said to her husband. Goldey suggested they go to moving picture houses. He gave her money and she took the children out, presumably to go to the theatre.

"I have not seen her or the children since," said Goldey to-day. "She left the house with them at 2 o'clock. At 5 o'clock I received a special delivery letter stamped with the Providence Postoffice mark at 1:40 that afternoon. This letter read:

"I Couldn't Stand It."

"Dear Aubrey:

I am sorry for you, but I told you I would have to go, even without my clothes and I have gone. If you want to, send my clothes to Bristol, Ct. (her former home). The children will need them. I am sorry for you, but I just couldn't stand it. I will write again when I feel better.—Florence."

"On the other side of the letter," continued Goldey, "was this message: 'If I had stayed until Monday it would have been the same as to-day.'"

The children whom Mrs. Goldey took are Hope Roberts Goldey, six years old, and Herbert Winfred Goldey, two years old. Mrs. Goldey is only twenty-two years old herself. She was married at the age of fifteen and Hope, the elder child was born when she was only sixteen. The mother is a pretty girl and the children are bright-appearing and attractive little ones.

Goldey had been clerking in Smith's grocery store at No. 149 Oxford street, but quit there, set up a periodical store at No. 1005 Pine street, had three rooms in back of the store for his family and was doing fairly well.

DR. HILL WILL GIVE UP FLAT FOR A HOUSE

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—David J. Hill, the American Ambassador, has taken a residence at No. 4 Bismarck street and has arranged to move in in December. The house is located near the Reichstag building and overlooks the Tiergarten.

Mrs. Hill has been in Berlin for the past few days, aiding her husband in the selection of their residence. Berlin society was startled when it learned shortly after Dr. Hill's appointment that he had taken a flat for his official residence.

It was more startled when Mrs. Hill was seen going to market astride a bicycle, but both the Ambassador and Mrs. Hill are apparently experiencing the aristocratic atmosphere that envelops the American embassies.

AGED FARMER MURDERS WIFE TRIES SUICIDE

VIROQUA, Wis., Nov. 11.—In a fit of jealousy eighty-four-year-old Eland Olson killed his wife, one year his junior, and then attempted suicide in their home on a farm near Esofea, six miles from this place. The old man is not expected to live.

Olson had upbraided his wife, claiming she was unfaithful and receiving attentions from a farm hand. Mrs. Olson resented the charge and quarrels were in frequent occurrence and heated.

Yesterday morning Olson sent his son to the village store. When he returned he found his mother lying in her blood with a gash in the back of the head. She had been struck with an axe, which lay close by.

In another room he found his father hanging by a rope, with blood flowing from a cut on his body. The mother died an hour after discovery.

GATES SORRY FOR MORSE

GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 11.—John W. Gates is back at his home at Port Arthur. He said that he had been delayed in New York in the interest of Banker Morse. Questioned about the Morse case Mr. Gates said it was too bad to see him convicted and sentenced to such a long term in prison, but, he continued, it should serve as a powerful lesson to bankers who are handling other peoples' money.

"Very few bankers or financiers intentionally swindle or steal," he said, "but in the manipulation of big deals involving millions they become venturesome."

BANK NOTES CAUSE BURGLAR'S ARREST

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—In the casual arrest of four suspicious persons on the Bowery the police have found a noted bank burglar and ex-convict who is wanted in Canada for blowing up the safe of the Bank La Provencale in Quebec on October 23. One of the four, George Monroe, had certificates issued by the Bank La Provencale when it was blown up. The safe blowers got more than $20,000 in certificates and almost as much in gold coin.

TAFT TO CAST ASIDE 'MANTLE'

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—President-elect Taft dined some nights ago with old friends, one of whom was Frederick W. Whitridge. One of his Yale classmates chaffed him upon the heavy burden he had borne throughout the campaign as the heir of the Roosevelt policies of wearing always "the mantle of Elijah."

"I am glad to see," laughed Mr. Taft, "that since you left college you have become a reader of the Scriptures. If you have read the book of Kings carefully, however, you must have seen that although the mantle of Elijah fell upon Elisha, it is not recorded that Elisha wore the mantle very long."

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Delegates representing six of the metal crafts of Boston were present at last night's meeting at No. 987 Washington street, at which plans were furthered for the formation of a metal trades' section of the Boston Central Labor Union, with a charter from the new Building Trades' Department of the American Federation of Labor, the first international convention of which will begin next Monday at Denver, Col.

A letter from General Secretary Treasurer Berres, inquiring as to the progress being made locally and offering the assistance of a general organizer, if one was considered necessary, was received. It was decided that a special organizer was not needed, and that at the meeting to be held December 1 all the local trades which were eligible would send delegates.

LABOR NOTES.

Building Trades section of the Boston Central Labor Union will hold an important meeting next Friday night at No. 384 Harrison avenue. An amendment to the constitution on the matter of per capita tax will be voted upon.

The ball committee of Electrical Workers No. 103 met last night at No. 987 Washington street to complete plans for the anniversary ball to be held in Odd Fellows Hall, No. 194 Columbus avenue, on December 11. SAY GOVERNOR KNEW PLOT TO SLAY CARMACK

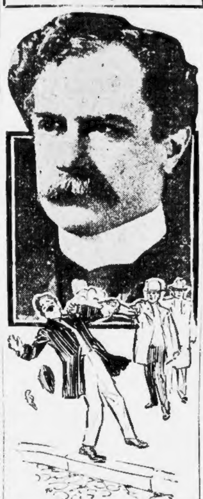
Patterson May Be Indicted as Accessory; Tennessee Split by Feud.

THREATS OF VIOLENCE

Ex-Senator Carmack and Scene of Tragedy That Disrupts a State



NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14.—Tennessee is torn asunder to-day over the killing of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack. Robin Cooper, who shot down the Senator, is in a hospital suffering from a slight wound in the shoulder, and his father, Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, who was deterred from firing only because his son and a woman were between him and Carmack, is in the county jail.

Open threats of lynching failed to materialize in action, and instead of mob law Nashville and the entire State have been plunged into a feud that promises to be one of the worst and bloodiest in the history of the country. Men high in political and church affairs, in the legal and business professions calmly state that if the Coopers are released even on bonds more killings are bound to result.

Threats of Violence.

At Columbia, Carmack's home, whither his body was escorted in state, the threats of violence are open. Scores of men have stated their determination to avenge the assassination of "Ned" Carmack. In Nashville, where the Coopers and Carmack divided the friendship of the community, there is little chance of trouble, but among the saner and more conservative leaders are scores who openly advocate lynching the Coopers. They declare that even if the Coopers are convicted Governor Patterson, their friend and political ally will pardon them and feeling is running so high that Governor Patterson's friends fear for his safety.

Tennessee has been stirred by the tragedy more than by anything since the Civil War. Nothing else is talked of and citizens of all classes have aligned themselves against or for Colonel Cooper and his son. With the Carmack forces stand the ministers, the law and order element, the reformers and the property interests and for Cooper the Democratic political machine.

May Indict Governor.

The forces that have backed Carmack in two bitter campaigns, one for re-election to the United States Senate, the other for the gubernatorial nomination, is crying for vengeance, while the entire State administration stands with Cooper, deploring the killing of Carmack, but ready to defend Cooper and his son.

Worse than that, Tennessee faces the possibility of having its Governor, M. R. Patterson, indicted as an accessory to the murder of Carmack. Friends of the dead statesman and editor declare that Patterson knew Colonel Cooper's threats and his intention to kill Carmack. Further, they declare that not only did Patterson know, but other high politicians knew of the plot to kill Carmack, carried warnings and held conferences with Cooper and his son.

It is charged also that one high politician was with Colonel Cooper and Robin Cooper two minutes before they crossed Seventh avenue to where Senator Carmack was talking with Mrs. Charles Eastman and precipitated the battle that left Carmack dead in the gutter.

The anger that has been aroused in Tennessee by the shooting of Carmack is shown in an editorial printed in the Memphis Scimitar, one of the leading newspapers of the State. It is in part as follows:

"Law and order assassinated—Ex-United States Senator and editor of the Tennessean, Mr. Carmack, was cowardly assassinated on the streets of Nashville by Duncan Cooper and his son, just after Cooper had left a conference with Governor Patterson.

Hint Pardon Promised Slayer.

"Cooper is chief adviser of the present administration. He represents that class of men with cultivated appetites, passions and ambition who are without visible and legitimate means of support supplying them. He doubtless felt secure in the future pardon by his friend and chief, Governor Patterson.

"He may have had more substantial grounds for believing this. A clergyman in a West Tennessee town, during last Summer's campaign, said over his signature, in the public press, in a style that evidenced his earnestness that Governor Patterson was the most corrupt public man the State had ever had.

"As Patterson's henchman, Cooper, had intruded to the final limit on the private life of Mr. Carmack, it is permissible for the public good to aid in driving this man Patterson from office and from the State; to say in part of his private life he is a gambler, who, when he wins, appropriates his gains, but when he loses does not feel called upon to use former winnings to pay his losses."

CRUISERS TO RACE OVER SEA

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 11.—Scout cruiser Chester with 350 tons of coal has arrived here from the Bradford coaling station preparatory to the great run across the Atlantic. The Chester will shortly be joined by the Salem and the Birmingham, and after four or five days' stay in Newport will sail on a comparative endurance run to the Azore islands. The 2,000-mile race is creating great interest.

FIND VICTIM OF TRAIN ROBBERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Yardmaster C. Barton was found unconscious in the Wabash railroad yards at Seventy-ninth street and Kedzie avenue at an early hour this morning. He was suffering from a bullet wound in the head and was rushed to the Mercy Hospital, where it was said his wound would prove fatal. It is believed he was shot by freight train robbers.

BAIL DENIED, MORSE MUST STAY IN TOMBS

Bond Refused, Legal Measures Are Exhausted for the Present.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has denied the application for bail in the case of Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker. It was a bitter disappointment to the former ice man, who had told relatives he was confident of regaining at least temporary freedom.

Unless his lawyers secure his release on a writ of habeas corpus or secure bail through an application to the United States Supreme Court, there is likelihood of Morse remaining in the Tombs for three months or more. It is practically certain that he will be a prisoner there for a month.

The hearing on the writ of error filed in behalf of Morse will not be held until Dec. 2. Meantime, a bill of exceptions will be filed. Wallace MacFarlane, who argued the motion for bail, intimated to-day that a final decision in the case might not be made until next March.

DEEP CRACKS FROM ECZEMA

Could Lay Slate-Pencil in One—Hands in Dreadful State—Disease Defied Remedies and Prescriptions—Suffered Seven Years.

FOUND A PERMANENT CURE IN CUTICURA

"I had eczema on my hands for about seven years and during that time I had used several so-called remedies, together with physicians' and druggists' prescriptions. The disease was so bad on my hands that I could lay a slate-pencil in one of the cracks and a rule placed across the hand would not touch the pencil. I used ——, ——, —— Skin Lotion, —— Remedy and others externally but I did not use any internal remedy, and while some gave partial relief, none relieved as much as did the first box of Cuticura Ointment. I made a purchase of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my hands were perfectly cured after two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of soap were used. I now keep them on hand for sunburn, etc., and use Cuticura Soap for shaving. I could write a great deal more in reference to my cure but do not want to take more of your time. William H. Dean, Newark, Del., Mar. 28, 1907."

CHILD SUFFERED With Sores on Legs. Cured in Two Weeks by Cuticura.

"My little daughter suffered with sores on her legs all last summer. Her feet were sore, too, and she couldn't wear her shoes. I think she was poisoned by running through weeds but the doctor said it was eczema. I tried several remedies but failed to find a cure. Then I sent for Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her in two weeks. I find Cuticura the best I ever tried for any kind of sore and I hope I shall never be without it. Mrs. Gertie Laughlin, Ivydale, W. Va., Apr. 25, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

LOUGHREY HAS A SHADE OVER BROCKTON BOXER

Crowded to the dome was the Armory A. A. when Young Loughrey, the tough Quaker boxer, faced Tommy Quill, the Brockton slasher, in their second meeting of twelve rounds, which was of the buzz saw variety, and Loughrey was declared the winner, the award being received with general satisfaction.

There was no big margin over Loughrey's win, but a boy never worked harder for a laurel wreath, and he duplicated his former performance of two weeks ago when he had a shade over the Brocktonite.

In fact, there was much similarity in the two mills, and the second meeting might just as well have been called a draw as in the first case, for there was more open work and that was where Quill was seen to better advantage over the visitor.

It was Loughrey's forcing tactics alone which swayed the decision his way. At long range action Quill was the one to shine, and he landed what heavy blows were put over, but could not do any damage, for Loughrey came back faster the harder he was hit.

Quaker Strong Infighter.

Loughrey was full of pepper, which he had to get out of his system at Quill's expense, and the Brockton boy could not seem to show a like amount of ginger, as he was outclassed when it came to infighting, the kind of battle Loughrey persisted in maintaining.

Loughrey's ripping, smashing in style caught the crowd and a visitor never received a bigger ovation as he kept forcing the issue savagely in every round, with Quill vainly trying to stave off defeat.

In the few exchanges in the open Quill showed better, as he stabbed fiercely, sending the Quaker's hand back as if on a hinge and crossed his right to the jaw, but the outsider appeared to have a molar rack made of iron and was not phenzed a bit by any of the jaw breakers Quill had to offer.

The Quaker's favorite style of milling was at close range, as he knew little cleverness, but when locked with Quill in a tight embrace, played havoc on the body with short-arm jolts that were tiring to his adversary.

Loughley Played for Body.

Loughrey started out in the first round to cut Quill's body up, and kept flashing both hands to the mid section, painting it crimson before the end came. With his head planted on Quill's chest he shot steamy blows into Quill's framework, or suddenly switched and flung over a left hook to the head without changing position, and kept the Hub boy guessing from what direction the storm was coming.

Quill kept in step as best he could by breaking away from the clinches and shooting over a straight left holding the Quaker at bay for an instant, but could not keep the advantage up as Loughrey tore in fiercely, pushing Quill all around the ring with his greater strength.

Quill did manage to slip over some rights to the jaw, but they did not carry the necessary power to do any damage, and had the effect to make Loughrey go in faster than ever.

Quill Landed Hardest Blows.

What heavy hitting was done Quill got the credit for and several times Loughrey was staggered, but was not hurt enough to cause him to stall any. He shook his head and was charging into Quill before he could set to put over another of the stinging variety.

Quill's flashes of superiority were short-lived and he failed to follow up any gain in his direction as Loughrey was too quick for him and was the busiest fighter ever seen in the local ring.

The boys went on at catchweights with Quill the favorite at odds of 10 to 7 and these figures went to evens before half the distance had been covered as Loughrey showed his former bull strength and kept Quill much on the defensive.

Jerry Gaines, the market champ, failed to land his haymaker on Bill McKinnon in the semi-final bout and the Roxbury boy got the decision at the end of eight rounds of slambang work. Jerry unloosened his famous punch in the opening round and it looked like curtains for McKinnon right there, but Mac did not drop and after that kept out of range, jumping in on Jerry and counting with effect. A crack over the eye started the gore on Gaines's optic and Jerry showed signs of weakness during the latter rounds as his legs wobbled. He occasionally got his pile-driving right working, but could not connect with the right spot.

Eddie Carr and Johnny Lynch went a fast six rounds to a draw.

TEAM RACES TO BE HELD BY THE METS ON NOV. 24

By ED. COGSWELL.

Double team racing is to be the attraction at Charles River Speedway on November 24, the afternoon being given exclusively to that sport. In hitting upon this feature the race committee of the Metropolitan Driving Club have without a question offered the public a most enticing novelty that with pleasant weather will crowd the famous drive with spectators.

In former years double team racing was the Mecca of true horsemanship. Back in the time of Commodore Vanderbilt with his Early Rose and Aldine, the star attraction on the New York roads, and, yes, referring to our own noted Mill Dam in its prime when John Shepard, the dean of Boston road drivers, swept all before him with Mill Boy and Blondine, it was a grand sight, indeed.

But in later years for some reason the idea of getting two horses matched in stepping down the road, or speedway, at a whirlwind gait has been passed up. There is no doubt the action of the Metropolitans in once again arousing interest in double team racing will be a wonderful incentive in booming amateur sport.

Among the horses already decided upon in the double team events at the speedway can be named the following: Dodie K. and Talpa, Earl King and Billy Ross, Susie F. and Carl C., Claymos and Clinch, and Little Sidney and Dean Swift. This is only a starter for the members are hustling to match up numerous more pairs.

Olive S. Wins Fast Trot.

There came another turnover in the fast trotting race at the matinee at Charles River Speedway through Olive S., owned by W. A. Sexton, secured the verdict after three heats. In the opening heat Chase, driven by John Trout, was to the wire first by a length from Olive S. in 1:04.

The second trip proved a mixup in the signals. Through mistake Wilbur Dontley gave the word and recall bell at the same time. All except Olive S. returned to score again, but Sexton came over the course and claimed the heat. In the meantime the remaining starters, Jim Ferry having been withdrawn through sickness, got the word and raced head and head from start to finish, Chase landing by a short nose from Dodie K.

After hearing the evidence the judges allowed Olive S. the heat, placing Chase second and Dodie K. third. With the easy heat under her belt, Olive S. had a little advantage over the others, which had been racing hard. This was demonstrated in the finish of the third trip, as Sexton was able to nip out Chase in a desperate drive by a neck in the final fifteen yards. The time was 1:06¼.

It is well to say that the day was slow for fast time, the air being extremely heavy and raw, while the wind blew directly in the faces of the horses.

Alice Mack aPces in 1:03.

Lester Dore had the winner of the fast pace in Alice Mack, she topping the summary from Claymos, My Star and Little Sidney. The time was 1:03, 1:05.

H. B. Ralston gained a masterly victory with Lord Quex in 1:06¾, 1:09, 1:07, losing the second heat to Billy Wilkes. Billy Ross got third in the final figuring, Tom Phair fourth and Jay Kay fifth. W. J. Furbush, who drove Billy Ross, nearly laughed himself to death over beating Jay Kay for place in the summary. It seemed that he bet his brother Fred, owner of Jay Kay, the suppers that Billy Ross would get the better place, while H. H. Cook got aboard by wagering Fred a plenty of oysters on the same proposition.

It was a great cleaning up for Dan Bigley, he carrying off a couple of races, one with Alclay H., the best time in 1:12, and the other with Alhambra in the same time as the Alclay H. event. It was too bad that Joe Doherty, owner of the chestnut gelding, was not present to see his trotter trim the bunch.

Fred Garmon was Johnny on the spot as usual with his trotting mare Martha G., this time taking the measure of J. E. C. in the best time of 1:08¾. It is even guessing that another season will find Martha G., out digging up the money in professional races.

W. J. McDonald pulled off a nice race with Talpa, losing the initial heat to George Mack in 1:08¼. Then Talpa came to her own in 1:09, 1:10. W. J. Furbush had no bother in getting first with his good pacer Guy F., in 1:05¼, beating Lon McDonald with Tony D. by so doing.

Match Race for Suppers.

There is a race at the speedway this forenoon between Harry Wood's champion, Sid Axworthy, and Fred Furbush's trotter, Jay Kay, and the beaten one has to settle for the suppers for a dozen persons.

One of the visitors was Louis Gray of Swanzey, the prominent horseman. He reported that he has sold to Father McGrath of East Providence, the trotting gelding Almont King, 2:16¼, to be used for speedway racing. Hiram Woodruff campaigned this horse over the New England track, giving him his mark over a half-mile course. The remaining winners at the speedway were:

Shimosa (W. A. Bleel), in 1:11½; Berta Van (W. Meadowcraft), in 1:15; Nonpareil (G. A. Sexton), in 1:09; Red Echo (J. W. Coakley), in 1:10; Go See (L. A. Beane), in 1:10; Frisco (E. F. Powers), in 1:14, and a walkover for Prince Albert (J. W. Coakley), in 1:16.

JOHN I. TAYLOR GETS $17,000 FOR PLAYERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—President John I. Taylor of the Red Sox has disposed of ten players since coming here to minor league teams. The latest sales are: Frank Donahue, the second baseman, and Robinson, a pitcher, to Springfield, Ill. Pitcher Bradley was disposed of to Altoona. Thompson, a pitcher, and Aken, a catcher, went to Seattle, and Catcher Gadick will probably go to Little Rock.

The only player that the Boston club now has for sale is John Hoey.

The total sales amount to $17,000.

More than fifty players of the Milwaukee and Minneapolis teams of the American Association and of the three Southern and Pacific Coast Leagues were placed upon the ineligible list to-day by the National Board of Arbitration.

They were alleged to have defied the rules of the agreement by engaging in post-season games with "outlaw" clubs.

No fines were imposed, but before signing contracts for next season the players must apply for reinstatement. Then their punishment will be decided on by Secretary Farrell.

The White Sox players who were declared ineligible because they played against Callahan's Logan Square team will not have a hearing at the present meeting of the National Commission, according to President Johnson. The commission will wait for the players themselves to make some movement looking toward their reinstatement.

AL KAUFMAN WON BOUT IN FOURTEENTH

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 11.—Al Kaufman still looms up as the most dangerous challenger in the heavyweight division. Delaney's burly protege knocked out Terry Mustain at the Vernon arena of the Jeffries A. C. The finish came in the fourteenth round, a hard right uppercut to the heart spilling Mustain to the floor. He was badly hurt and absolutely helpless, his seconds hurrying into the ring to care for their man and saving Referee Charley Eyton the trouble of counting the defeated boxer out.

Mustain's efforts at fighting Kaufman could be likened to a playful little terrier snapping at the feet of a huge mastiff. At times he outboxed Kaufman, but upon these occasions the giant San Francisco man only laughed like the big overgrown boy that he is and continued to work his long arms like piston rods knowing that it was only a matter of time until he would bring the prize home. In spite of the fact that he was hopelessly outclassed and whipped to a standstill, Mustain made a game showing and was cheered when he regained his strength sufficiently to leave the ring.

Kaufman, knowing that he had a long twenty-five-round route before him, took his time and beat his man at leisure. Every move of the big fellow was that of a man toying with an opponent that he was sure of beating any time he cared to extend himself.

Fighting Poses of Jim Driscoll, Who Meets Matty Baldwin in New York Friday

Fight experts in this country have been very much impressed with the training work of Driscoll, and predict his victory over Baldwin. The photos show the former's physical development.

These photos of Jim Driscoll show the English fighter in characteristic attitudes. He is said to be the best English boxer who has ever come to this country.

JOHN L. PICKS BURNS TO WIN

John L. Sullivan does not take any great interest in the present-day fight game because he thinks that the majority of the ring principals of to-day are too greedy for gate receipts and not anxious enough for a real scrap, but he does believe that the championship of the world, if Tommy Burns is to be regarded as a champion, will rest with the white man.

"I don't think the time is ripe for a negro to pose at the head of the heavyweight boxers of the world," says John L. "In the first place, I don't think they are advanced in the art as well as the white pugilists. Then I don't know that Jack Johnson is game, and for that reason I expect Tommy Burns to win out before the referee can render any decision."

Jake Kilrain also voiced the sentiments of his partner, and both pick Johnson to fall before the limit is reached.

Coach Points Weakness of the Yale Eleven

TAD JONES PRAISES BROWN TEAM

BY TAD JONES.

Coach of the Yale back field and one of the gridiron game's greatest exponents.

The Yale-Brown game was a terrific fight from beginning to end. Evenly matched in weight and strength, it was a battle royal, with victory going to neither.

The Brown eleven in the first five minutes of play showed an attack that the Yale men could not diagnose until after a touchdown had been scored. With the blessing of a punt helping them, the Providence team, by means of a forward pass, scored the first touchdown made against Yale this year.

In point of attack the Brown eleven was very powerful. Time and again the backs plunged through the Blue line for good, substantial gains, and more than once did Mayhew, the fast little halfback, tear off from eight to fifteen yards around the ends.

The Brown forwards were good, strong men, fast and well coached in both defensive and offensive play. They were low in the line charged with great power and were hard to stop. Sprackling, the little quarterback, was a host in himself. Never once did he lose command of his team, driving it with skill and deadly effect. In the back field his errors of punts were not costly, as Brown men recovered the ball in every instance. The ends of the Providence team were in evidence at all stages of the game. The game was replete with kicking, and at no time did the back field men run back the kicks.

Yale Team a Surprise.

The Yale team was a surprise in one sense of the word. The large scores of the two preceding games made the Blue supporters hopeful of a decisive victory, though never once was the ability of the Brown eleven underestimated. A hard game was expected, and a hard game was had.

The greatest weakness of the Eli team as far as the makeup of the team is concerned was in the play of the forwards generally. The tackles, Hobbs and Brown, were at sea most of the game to all appearances. No gains were made through them on straight line plays, but a good tackle has more to do these days than merely stop the play directed at him. He must go in and break up interference; he must go in and force forward passes; he must get down the field and make tackles now and then; in fact, he must be in every play. Hobbs and Brown both were slow getting down the field, and when they did get down almost invariably missed their man; they forced no forward passes and only on one occasion did they break up interference.

Guards Were Strong.

Andrus and Goebel at guards were very good. The Brown quarterback tried seldom to gain through them and when he did his play was thrown for a loss. Goebel is improving rapidly. At times he was the first man down the field under kicks—though he did not always get his man. On his line play he is more confident of his ability than before, and being so can play with greater skill and efficiency. Biddle at centre was all that could be asked for. He was steady in his passing—never wabbling a single time—and took good care of his territory in the line. Cooney also did well during the time that he played.

The Yale backfield also was at fault. Brides did scarcely more than fill with his body the little space that he is given to cover on the defence. His interfering was poor, and only now and then did he help his runner on offence. No back can gain ground without the help of his line and the other backs. The line refused to open holes, Brides did not interfere and put his man away, and consequently Philbin and Coy were left to bear the burden of the others. Coy's kicking was good, though his running play was hardly up to standard. He was a bit unsteady in the backfield, but this was partly due to lack of confidence in his interferers. His all-round play was good, but not brilliant as it usually is.

Philbin Tower of Strength.

Philbin at left halfback played as pretty a game both offensively and defensively as has been seen on Yale field for some time. Seldom did he fail to gain five yards when called upon to take the ball, and his defensive work stopped Mayhew when that back was well started on his way down the field. Philbin was in the right spot at the right time. Murphy and Johnston at quarterback displayed ability and showed that they can be relief upon. Johnston's run made possible Yale's touch down.

The game, coming at this time, brought forth many weaknesses in Yale's play—weaknesses that must be remedied before the game with Princeton. It was a good game, exciting and well fought all the way through.

HORSE NEWS TRACK GOSSIP

Prince of Orange, 2:08½, formerly owned by J. Y. Gatcomb, Concord, N. H., is now being used as a road horse by his owner, J. H. Cutchell of Newark, N. J.

Fay Girl, 2:12¾, Willis Foote's Prodigal trotter, won twelve races out of fifteen starts this season and took her record over a half-mile track.

Fred Entricken of London, Ont., the owner of The Gray Streak, has a signet ring made with an eel engraved on it and wears the band of gold as an appropriate reminder of The Eel, 2:02¼, the wonderful gray pacer, second only to Minor Heir, 1:59½, in 1908.

Dan Patch, 1:55¼, gave twelve exhibitions at different meetings this season, and while he did not reduce his record, every mile was turned in less than two minutes. He gave the performances on a percentage basis, and the greatest amount Mr. Savage received was from the Michigan State Fair, when he got a check for $5,910.41 for his part.

Fred Teachout, the Michigan trainer, says that Central G., 2:09¼, is rounding to from the injuries he received when he ran away at Detroit and fell into a ditch. Teachout believes that he is better than a 2:06 trotter and that he will have to be reckoned with in the 2:10 classes next year.

Nervalo, 2:04¼, the pacing stallion raced and developed by Scott Hudson some years ago, is now owned by James Farley of New York. He paced a mile over the Malone track the other day accompanied by a running mate in 2:01¼, with Mr. Farley in the sulky. Nervalo was owned during the early part of the season by Barney Demarest.

A change in the rule for distances which would reduce the distance to twenty yards when only two horses start and then allow ten yards for each additional starter, reducing it again by ten yards when a horse drops out, has been advocated in some quarters. The plan would certainly do away with "laying up" heats in races when the fields were small, very pertinently observes Colonel Edwards in the Newark Call.

The Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association has been made defendant in a suit for $5,000 by Isadore Horwitz, who alleges that he was arrested by agents of the association on the opening day of the recent trotting meeting, charged with being a pickpocket. He claims to have been taken in charge in front of the crowded grandstand and taken to the office of the secretary, where he was subjected to great humiliation.

"TWINS" AT ST. JOHN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 11.—Mike and Jack Twin Sullivan appeared in boxing exhibitions here. In the first of the two ten-round bouts Mike Twin met Young Mahoney. Mike did not have to exert himself seriously, but with clever blocking and stepping easily took care of himself. The bout between Jack Twin and Jim Pendergast was a lively one.

HARVARD TEAM IN FINE SHAPE FOR THE GREEN

A long, hard practice is carded for the Harvard football team to-day. All the players are in fine trim for Dartmouth, except, of course, Captain Burr, who is now out of the infirmary and can watch the practice.

The varsity and substitutes were then put through a long and fast signal drill. The players moved fast, and seemed full of ginger and snap. The first team, which lined up exactly as it faced the Indians at the commencement of the game, consisted of G. G. Browne, l. e.; McKay, l. t.; Dunlap, l. g.; Nourse, c.; Hoar, r. g.; Fish, r. t.; Crowley, r. e.; Cutler, q. b.; Corbett, l. h. b.; White, r. h. b.; Kennard, f. b. Ver Wiebe later succeeded Kennard at fullback.

NATIONAL LEAGUE MEETING

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

Strange how those fighters can take off weight. Tuesday afternoon Ketchel weighed 180 pounds. Yesterday he was below the middleweight limit. Maybe to-morrow he will go after a match with Johnny Coulon.

Johnny Thompson, through his brilliant press agent, Barney Lichtenstein, has offered to fight Battling Nelson for charity. Lawfter.

Rudie Unholz and his wife have sailed for Australia, where Rudie expects to begin all over again. Unholz trailed along with remarkable success after outpointing Nelson in a ten-round go at Los Angeles, but they finally caught him at it. He showed us what a counterfeit he was when he boxed Hyland at the Navarre Club.

The boxing game at New Orleans was revived Saturday night when Jimmy Gardner and Jimmy Clabby of Milwaukee met in a fifteen-round go, the former getting the decision.

Joe O'Connor, manager of Stanley Ketchel, has for the first time given out the ex-champion's weight since he was defeated by Papke at Los Angeles. Ketchel is working at Croll's Gardens in Alameda, where McGovern often worked, and he weighed 178 pounds when Manager O'Connor put him on the scales the first day he started work. Nine pounds were allowed for his clothes, so the extra eleven pounds will not be much of a task to get off.

"Young Corbett" informs the sport-loving public that he is in active training, preparing to re-enter the ring. Corbett frankly confesses that he needs the money; that the only way he can get it is by fighting, and now that he is up against it he will really get into training. Corbett's case is certainly a tough one. Once a champion and a fighter who has won several fortunes, he is now down and out. His case contrasts strangely with that of Nelson, who is worth in the neighborhood of $200,000. Corbett in his day made almost as much as the Battler, but the pace that kills took not only Corbett's money but his ability and reputation as a fighter.

Eddie Kelly says he will surely beat Bebee at Rochester the latter part of this month. "I know Attell beat me through lack of experience," says Kelly, "and with a little more teaching I intend to take one more whirl at the title. After I meet Bebee I am to box O'Toole and Jimmie Walsh, and if successful with all three will surely meet Attell again."

Nelson will have to look upon the claims of Little Johnny Thompson now. He ought to give the Dane a tough time of it, even though the chances of his winning are mighty slim. The Dane makes no bones about the torrid time Cyclone would give him, but he would be happy to meet him if some manager on the coast has the nerve to try Thompson as a card with the great Dane.

It will be Jack Nelson instead of Dick Nelson who will fight Paddy Sullivan at Binghamton Thursday night. Dick Nelson is waiting to hear from Leach Cross. Nelson has made up his mind to go to the Coast, and after another bout or two will make the start.

Willie Lewis and Harry Lewis have signed up to meet before the Englewood Athletic Club on December 14 in a twelve-round bout. They will weigh in at 148 pounds at 3 o'clock. Willie Lewis will start for Kingston in a few days to begin work for the contest. Their last appearance was at the National Club there, when they fought at about an even gait.

JIM DRISCOLL IS ENGLAND'S BEST BOXER

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Out at Cannon's roadhouse on the White Plains road, Jim Driscoll, the best featherweight in all England, has been strenuously working and getting into shape for his fight with Matty Baldwin Friday at the Fairmont Club.

Jim brought over a few sets of five-ounce gloves from the other side and they are used in the boxing. Abe Attell is noted for his fast left hand, but if the two ever meet our champion will forget that he ever had a left. Driscoll's is one of those double-barrelled affairs, and how he can whale it in!

Jim can poke that hand to the stomach, then three times on the nose, then a few up to the chin, about as fast as a piston rod. And the beauty of it is that there is plenty of steam behind it. He is a natural puncher and very accurate in his delivery. The other day an aspiring young man from up that way dropped in to hand Jim a lacing, but he only lasted a round and a half. After tearing into Jim for a second Jim stepped back and wobbled him with a right, and as the newcomer fell slipped over the big sleep-producer.

Never Been Knocked Out.

Driscoll has been invincible on the other side, and has never suffered the humiliation of going down, with possibly one exception—when Griffin fouled him at the National Sporting Club. But that doesn't count. His record below is an enviable one, and if he stays in this country long enough there will be many prominent names added to it.

Jim takes pride in telling of a tournament he entered in England in 1902. He weighed but a hundred pounds then, and the show was made up of 140-pounders. There were seven entrants, and when Jim stripped for action the officials wanted to stop him from going on, but he was persistent and was allowed to go on. The first three blokes he met were knocked cold, and the rest lost decisions to him. That's going some for a lad weighing ninety-eight pounds.

Another time Jim was traveling with a boxing show where he was meeting all comers. Any one that stuck over two rounds was given a prize of $5. There were other stars with the show beside Jim, but out of thirty-three knockouts during the night Driscoll was credited with seventeen of them.

Jim got so good after a while that he had to wait for months and months before he could get work. His last fight was with Charlie Griffin at the National Club, seven months ago, the latter losing in the fifteenth round on a foul. That was the first fight Driscoll had had in twelve months, the one before that being his bout with Joe Bowker, whom he put away in seventeen rounds.

Driscoll was born in 1881 in Cardiff, Wales, and began boxing in 1899. He won the featherweight championship of England by defeating Joe Bowker in fifteen rounds at the National Sporting Club of London in 1906.

Two years ago he was on the verge of coming to America, but Jim got the matrimonial bug in his bonnet and the proposed trip was forgotten about. If he had come at that time the featherweight championship of the world might belong to him now. From what he has shown around the camp it looks as though he has more than an even chance to cop it yet.

Driscoll takes to his work like a duck does to water, and in the morning six miles around the Morris Park track is merely a little stunt to get his blood circulating.

He has already been found ten and fifteen miles away up the road with his trainers staggering behind him. But now that he is down to weight the long runs are not necessary.

Two days after Driscoll came off the boat he stripped in Cooper's gymnasium, after doing a little sparring, and weighed 123 pounds. During his few weeks' rest he took on several pounds, but now strips at 125. He has a healthy appearance, a clear eye and his muscles stand out all over his body.

Driscoll has fond hopes of meeting Attell in the near future, and if he does it looks as though Abe will have to relinquish the title he has held so long. Driscoll will surely surprise the natives when he starts with Baldwin, and his manager is confident that his charge will put Baldwin away before the limit is reached. And that is asking some.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

Hughey Jennings is now the possessor of a swell buzz wagon, said to be a present from Owner Yawkey for landing another pennant for the fair city of Detroit.

As a leader of tail-end teams John J. McCloskey, ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, has had a wide experience.

Rumor has it that Davy Jones will play left field for Detroit next year and McIntyre will be traded. Factional trouble is said to be the cause.

Pitcher Summers, of the Tigers, is said to be part Indian. With Nig Clarke catching him it would be a wild battery in some ways.

Frank Nevin, who gained some notoriety by saying that he wouldn't give a nickel for Cy Young, seeks more limelight by announcing that he wouldn't take Chase as a gift. Isn't he a humorist?

Browne Gessler, a star with the Boston Americans last year and regarded as one of the best outfielders in the American League, was turned loose by Brooklyn and Chicago and served a year with Columbus in the American Association before he showed the form of a regular. Gessler is a fixture in the Boston team.

Charley Hemphill was sent to St. Paul, in the American Association, three or four years ago by Jimmy McAleer, and he proceeded to set things on fire by hitting around .370 and leading the swatters of the league. Last year Hemphill was the one star on the New York Americans. His play was the feature of nearly every game in which the Yankees did anything worthy of notice.

Jake Stahl, the first baseman of the Boston Americans, is prominently mentioned as an official for the game between Oberlin and Reserve.

Teddy McGrew, a Central League ball player, is to officiate as referee in the new Ohio State Polo League. As a player he was an umpire baiter, so it will be interesting to watch him.

The right name of three players who often perform on the Cardinal infield are Hoelskoetter, Auchenbach and Konetchy. Ain't it terrific.

Umpire Handiboe, in the Ohio State League last year, will get a trial in the American Association next year.

Johnny Evers is regarded as a hero in Troy, N. Y., but in the big city they have a far different opinion of Johnny.

According to Fred Clarke, of the Pirates and he ought to know, the harder the series and the greater the stake the better ball the Cubs play. That one thing proves they are a really great team.

When Bill Campbell, the Reds' popular southpaw, returns from his trip to Cuba with Bancroft's Filibusters he will hie himself straight back to Cincinnati to sign a life contract with Miss Alice Pieve, a charming young lady of Clifton. The wedding will take place before the holidays.

Receipt That Cures Weak Men---Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, failing memory and lame back, brought on by overwork, that has cured so many sick and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain strength quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere, who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Mr. A. E. Robinson, 4007 Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

LITTLE ONES OPEN BAZAAR OF NATIONS

Children Flock to Mechanics Hall—Queen to Be Crowned To-night.

A. O. H. IN BIG PARADE

Miss Alice G. Clifford, daughter of Thomas E. Clifford, a Boston baritone, has been chosen to take the part of "Queen of Erin" for the big "Bazaar of Nations," which opened in Mechanics Building this noon.

Crowning the fair Queen of Erin is one of the features of Hibernian night at the bazaar to-night.

This "Bazaar of Nations" is the result of a joint effort on the part of the Catholic charitable institutions of the archdiocese to establish a fund from which all the church charities may be aided. The bazaar will last four days and evenings, closing next Saturday night.

The Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, director of diocesan charities, is in charge of the event. Every civilized nation on the globe is represented. Each nation has a booth.

This afternoon the children of the Catholic schools in Boston had a half holiday and hundreds of them trooped to the hall to see and enjoy the many attractions of the bazaar.

Coronation To-night.

To-night is Hibernian night at the bazaar and more than 7,000 members of the A. O. H. parade through the streets to the hall. In the hall there will be speaking by the Archbishop and Matthew Cummings, head of the A. O. H., and as a fitting climax to the evening's festivities the various nations represented by the attendants at the different booths will pay homage to and crown the Queen of Erin.

In the parade of the members of the A. O. H. the various divisions will form at Arlington and Beacon streets and march to Beacon street, to Charles street, through Park square, to Columbus avenue, to West Newton street and to the hall.

The members of the A. O. H. will be welcomed by Rev. Philip J. O'Donnell, the State chaplain, who will introduce State President Rogers.

K. of C. To-morrow.

To-morrow night will be Knights of Columbus night, and there will be a big procession of members of that order.

Of this parade State Deputy William J. O'Brien will be chief marshal and Louis Watson, state secretary, will be chief of staff.

The various councils will form on Commonwealth avenue, right resting on Dartmouth street. The line of march will be across Boylston street and Copley square to Huntington avenue to Mechanics building. It is expected that there will be at least 5,000 men in line. The members of the fourth degree will act as escort to the other members of the order. The fourth degree members will be in charge of Captain Denis J. Gorman. Lieutenant Thomas F. Sullivan will be in charge of the degree staff. After arriving at the hall, the fourth degree staff will give an exhibition drill.

FREE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE COURSE

Under the auspices of the North American Civic League for Immigrants, Abraham Alpert, editor of the Boston Jewish American and representative of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, will deliver a series of free illustrated lectures at the Bowdoin School, Myrtle street. The first lecture, "A Trip Through America," comes to-morrow night.

To Crown Her Queen of Erin

Miss Alice G. Clifford, who has been chosen as typical Irish beauty for highest honor at the "Bazaar of Nations" to-night.

"AFFINITY" GIVES EARLE LOVE PAT WITH A CHAIR

JULIA KUTNER HANDS THE ARTIST A BLACK EYE AND A BUMPED CRANIUM.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, of "affinity" renown, is nursing a black eye at his castle-like home in Monroe, N. Y. He is also caring for a large bruised bump upon the same side of his head.

The marks of battle, he confided to-day to a neighbor, were inflicted by Julia Kuttner Earle, his "affinity" wife, whom he wedded early this year, after putting aside his first wife and his children last Fall.

The "affinity" bride, Earle told his neighbor, used a chair as her weapon. His head shows how effectively she wielded it. The score between the artist and his soul mate now stands even, for two months ago he beat and choked her, and spent several days in the Goshen jail after pleading guilty.

Guarded Against Townspeople.

This latest combat occurred Saturday afternoon. The townspeople of Monroe, against whom Earle guards himself with shotguns, great Danes, dogs, stinging bees and other unique weapons, got the story. It didn't come from the "affinity" man's friends, for he kept his counsel. But it was told by a man who claimed to know even more about it. This was Charles Dayton, a mason who lives in Chester. This, according to Dayton, is what happened:

"I was working last Saturday out there at the castle where Earle lives with his 'affinity' when all of a sudden I heard a woman scream. It was the 'affinity'—I'd heard her talking before. And Earle came running in to me, holding his eye and the side of his head with his two hands.

"My Wife Hit Me."

"'What's the matter, Mr. Earle?' I asked. 'My wife hit me,' he replied. 'Hit you with what?' I asked him, for it would take a pretty hard punch to mess him up the way he was. 'With a chair,' said Earle, rubbing his head.

"I thought that was no place for me, and it was pretty near quitting time anyhow, so I knocked off work and went out of the house," concluded Dayton.

Dayton repeated the incident to his employer, Bernard Peck, and from the town of Chester it travelled back to the town of Monroe. It was the big news of the day there to-day.

"My wife never struck me," Earle indignantly replied to-day when asked about his wounds.

"Are We Not Happy?" "We Are"—(?)

"The story is untrue altogether. It is nobody's business whether I am injured or not or how I got my injuries. My second wife and I are perfectly happy together. Are we not, dear?"

"We are, dear," replied Mrs. Earle laconically.

"All we want is to be let alone," the artist added. "I have been bothered to death by magazine editors trying to get my 'Love Letters of a Married Man,' and asking me to write 'How to Be Happy in Married Life.' And now comes this story. I wish the public would forget me."

ALL EYES ON MME. RUIZ AT BIG HORSE SHOW

Mrs. Vanderbilt's Gold-Heeled Slippers Also Attract Much Attention.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The second day of the Horse Show was marked by all of its old-time brilliancy. Society attended in force, gowned in more elaborate creations than ever before.

A decided stir was caused in the boxes by the appearance of Mme. Ruiz, who arrived in time to see Alfred G. Vanderbilt's entries win first and second prizes. She occupied box 31, in the upper tier; was modestly gowned in brown, with a huge coat of brown caracul and hat to match.

The appearance at the show of the mysterious Mme. Ruiz, who enjoys the friendship of the head of the Vanderbilt family, furnished a topic for conversation among the box holders for the rest of the afternoon.

The costumes worn by the women showed that the semi-Empire Directoire period has arrived and every one represented an enormous outlay of money.

For gown gorgeousness Mrs. Henry Siegel, Miss Carolyn Fellows, Mrs. Herman B. Duryea, Miss Dorothy Wild, Mrs. E. D. Morgan, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary were among the most noticed. Mrs. Vanderbilt still affected her slippers with solid gold heels, an undoubted novelty which has attracted a good deal of attention.

The driving of thirteen tandems was something which gained great applause. Both the Vanderbilt boys drove their tandems. Miss K. L. Wilks, a well-known tandem whip, attracted considerable attention.

Mrs. Edwin H. Weatherbee competed in the class for saddle horses, also Mrs. Herbert C. Cox, who rode Lady Jasmine. Then came the ten ponies in harness and finally the judging of the ladies' qualified hunters.

"Little Freddie," the horse ridden by John Hever, who eloped with Nancy Carnegie, was disqualified in this class.

The Addie Challenge Cup becomes the property of J. W. Harriman, as it was won by his bay gelding Flashlight.

Canadian horses took a number of prizes, Toronto horsemen being well represented.

Both Miss Wilks and Mrs. Cox are Canadian women, and ride and drive exceedingly well.

Mrs. Edith Preece, one of the best-known horsewomen in England, also rode a saddle horse, flying the colors of the Enfield Chase Stag Hunt of Hertfordshire. Mrs. Preece believes that all women should ride astride.

HERBERT HALE PASSES AWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Herbert Dudley Hale, one of the best known architects in the East, is dead at his home on East Fifty-fifth street. He had been ill with a nervous disorder for a long time, and his death was not unexpected.

Herbert Dudley Hale was the grandson of Rev. Edward Everett Hale, and was well known in Boston. He was born in that city in 1866, and spent his early life here.

After graduating from Harvard he went to Paris, where for three years he attended the Beaux Arts completing the regular course.

Mr. Hale then returned to this country and married Miss Margaret Marquand. He settled in New York later, and began a career as an architect that won him fame.

GETS $3,000 IN DEATH SUIT

Mrs. Lizzie Kane was awarded $3,500 by a jury in the Middlesex County Superior Civil Court in East Cambridge to-day in her suit against the North Packing & Provision Company for $5,000. She sued to recover damages for the death and suffering of her husband, William F. Kane, who was running an elevator in the company's plant in Somerville and fell six stories when the lift broke. She was awarded $3,000 for her husband's death and $500 for his conscious suffering. He died the day following the accident. Mrs. Kane lives in Cambridge.

HAWKING MACHINES

Catarrh Sufferers Are Nothing but Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrh, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose, in a few days.

It is guaranteed by Jaynes Drug Co. to do it or money back, and such a guarantee ought to be strong enough for anybody.

Entirely Cured by Hyomei.

Having suffered from catarrh for about two years, and having tried numerous remedies without any satisfactory results, I finally tried Hyomei and am glad to state that after using about one and one-half bottles I am entirely cured. I have recommended it to others with satisfactory results.—C. N. Lindsy, 407 East First Ave., Mitchell, S. D.

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each at Jaynes Drug Co. or direct, by mail, charges prepaid, from Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hyomei also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Croup of infants, and any inflammatory disease of the respiratory tract.

LINEHAN SUED BY O'CONNELL

Joseph P. Connell, contractor, and manager of the J. P. O'Connell Company, to-day filed a bill in equity for claims said to be due him from the Atlas Construction Company. O'Connell fixes the sum at $1,643, and names Senator Frank Linehan and Frank Conroy as mebers of the Atlas Company, claiming that he sold them material valued at that amount for use in constructing the Deer Island wall, just completed by the Atlas people.

O'Connell asked Judge Richardson to have the city withhold from the Atlas Company $1,643 of the amount due on their contract, and that the company also be compelled to file a bond as security for the amount which he claims to be due him.

The W. S. Kearns Company, John S. Kiley and the General Fireproofing Company, were named as defendants, too, and an order of notice, returnable Nov. 20, was issued.

EMMONS SUES TO RECOVER ON ASSIGNED NOTE

In Bill Declares Woman Has Claim on Estate of Late Major Duchesney.

HAD $3,800 ON DEPOSIT

Former Police Commissioner W. H. H. Emmons has brought suit against E. Le Roy Sweetser of Everett, administrator of the estate of the late Major Lawrence N. Duchesney of Lawrence. Duchesney was a major in the first battalion of Light Artillery, M. V. M. He died last Spring.

Emmons, in his bill, says that on April 9, 1906, Duchesney, in consideration of a loan of $2,600, made by May L. Metheson, gave her a promissory note for $2,600 and 5 per cent, and gave her as security forty shares of Harvard Brewing Company stock, also a bank book to the value of $3,000 on the Enterprise Co-operative Bank.

Duchesney died on April 22 last. There was $3,800 on deposit in the bank at the time of his death. Sweetser is willing to pay the amount due on the note.

Emmons says that the son and daughter of Major Duchesney, his only heirs, are not willing that this money should be paid over. He alleges that May L. McLaeson is penniless except for the money Duchesney owed her and a bill she had against his estate for nursing him in his last illness.

Emmons says that the woman was obliged to borrow money of him and that she assigned a note to him. He now wants the amount due him ascertained and that the bank be ordered to pay out of Duchesney's deposits that amount of money.

A subpoena returnable the first Monday in December was issued by Judge Richardson.

NEVER AGAIN, SAYS LODGE, NO "LUNCHES"

Senator Quite Put Out Because He Was Caught Mixing in State Senate Fight.

TREADWAY BEING BOOMED

Never again—United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

If Senator Lodge finds out the identity of the person who disclosed the fact that he went to dinner at Young's Hotel yesterday with State Senators Thorndike Spalding of Cambridge and Allen T. Treadway of Stockbridge and there instructed Spalding to withdraw as a candidate for next year's Senate presidency in Treadway's favor, it won't be well for the tattler.

Senator Lodge isn't going to any more lunches in city hotels, anyway—with Senate presidency aspirants while the contest for tahr office is on. He so notified Secretary Groves at the Republican committee's State headquarters by telephone to-day.

Crane? Oh, Yes, He's In It.

Mr. Lodge, however, will not cease to take a hand in the Senate presidency fight. Neither will his colleague, Senator Winthrop Murray Crane, according to a man prominent in the affairs of the Republican State Committee.

"There's mighty little that Lodge isn't taking a hand in nowadays," said this authority to-day. "As for Senator Crane—well, he's a prolific user of the telephone, no matter what part of the country he's in."

Lodge and Crane are both uniting their efforts to defeat James F. Shaw of Manchester for the Senate presidency. Whom to elect isn't of nearly as much importance as the defeat of Shaw, in the Lodge-Crane opinion. Last week they were for Elmer C. Potter of Worcester. His candidacy didn't loom up properly, so to-day they are with Treadway.

Shaw, meantime, satisfies himself with telling his friends that he has seventeen pledged votes, a majority of the thirty-three Republicans elected to next year's Senate. The anti-Shaw forces say that he has but ten real pledges and four tentative promises. Almost his entire line-up can be shifted by Messrs. Lodge and Crane, they say.

How They Line Up.

Treadway's pledges of support are estimated at seven, including himself. Potter is said to have seven. His withdrawal in favor of Treadway is expected. Spalding of Cambridge withdrew yesterday. Stevens of Somerville, with one pledge and one "perhaps," is also expected to withdraw. Candidate Grimes of Reading, with no known pledges, is saying nothing.

The anti-Shaw forces charge that Lawyer Charles F. Choate of the New Haven Railroad and more than half of the lobby representatives of the "special interests" are supporting Shaw. Shaw has sent word to his opponents' camps that if they persist in circulating this story he will tell some "special interests" stories that won't help their candidacies.

BATTERED BY STORMS, SHIPS REACH BOSTON

Battered by terrific seas and with their crews exhausted, two long overdue schooners were towed into port to-day by the tug Neponsit from Vineyard Haven, where they had put in for shelter. They were the three-masted Grace Seymour, Captain Gibbs, and the John Paul, Captain Rutledge.

The Grace Seymour left Wiggins, S. C., on September 29 with half a million feet of lumber for Boston. She had been out but a few days when she was forced to put into St. Helens for shelter, where she was storm-bound for three weeks.

On Oct. 10 she started North again, encountering heavy weather and head seas, and being driven back 220 miles.

The John Paul left Darien Sept. 29 for this port. Fair weather was met until Cape Hatteras was reached, when she encountered a storm which drove her back under bare poles. The terrific seas opened her top sides and with every lurch she shipped tons of water. The crew were kept at the pumps working in shifts. With several feet of water in the hole, her sails torn and her crew tired out, she reached Vineyard Haven on Nov. 2.

TWO-DOLLAR VIOLIN WORTH OVER $6,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—James H. Rowland, an old Monmouth Park farmer, who lives near Eatontown, N. J., bought an old violin at an auction sale two years ago for two dollars. An expert who examined it to-day declared that the farmer's antique instrument is worth more than $6,000.

This is the day of the gentle in medicine. Cascarets have supplanted physics. They act in a natural way, not with harshness.

Most of our dull days are due to inactive bowels.

Nearly all of our minor ills could be avoided by a little candy Cascaret.

Also, half of our greater ills.

Isn't it foolish to suffer, when there is such a pleasant way to avoid it?

Cascarets save the hours.

They save the time that we waste if we are not at our best. They bring good cheer. For the blues and ill temper rarely occur when the bowels are properly helped.

They make the breath sweet, the complexion clear, the eyes bright.

All this for ten cents per week.

In the old days, people let matters run until they needed a large dose of physic.

Then they took something severe - like castor oil, salts or cathartics.

That meant abuse to the bowels.

These are the days of the gentle and natural—the days of Cascarets. Carry a box always with you. For the right way to take them is one at a time—just as soon as you need it.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure you get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50c, 25c and

MORE SUITS FOR STANDARD OIL

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—It was announced in the office of District Attorney Sims, following the decision of the Appellate Court, that additional suits against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana have been fully prepared, and that trials may be demanded within two weeks.

Two of the suits charge rebating in connection with shipments on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad and two with shipments on the Evansville & Terre Haute Railroad. The cases cover almost 1,880 counts, on which indictments were returned by Federal Grand Juries.

Cases in which charges of rebating are made in connection with shipments over the Chicago & Alton Railroad also are being prepared by the assistants of Mr. Sims, and scores of witnesses in these cases have already been examined.

GIRL FACING THEFT TRIAL COLLAPSES

Employer Testifies She Admitted Stealing Money to Buy Ball Gown.

IS HELD IN $400 BONDS

BROCKTON, Nov. 11.—Miss Mary Helen McLeod, the pretty cashier who is accused by Simon Hirshberg, proprietor of the Standard Shoe Company, with taking $100 or more of his money, was held for the Grand Jury in $400 bonds by Judge Warren A. Reed in the Brockton Police Court to-day, and bail was furnished by her aunt, Mrs. Edward E. Brooks, and a woman friend.

Miss McLeod, who was paid a salary of $4 a week by her employer, was nearly overcome when her case was called. Taken to the witness room for a few moments, she was able to return to the courtroom and withstand the ordeal.

She did not take the witness stand. Attorney Elmer H. Fletcher, her counsel, offered no evidence in defence, but put D. A. Leonard, manager of the shoe store, and Police Inspector James H. Grace through a rigorous examination. Under cross-examination they stated that they were present Saturday afternoon at a conference with the girl in the shoe store and that Simon Hirshberg, the proprietor, had offered to settle the case for $500 paid in restitution. It was stated that the girl is suspected of taking between $400 and $500 which did not belong to her.

Manager Leonard said under cross-examination that when Miss McLeod was accused she replied "I took some money, but I don't know how much. I'd be willing to ask my father to pay $200 to settle."

Manager Leonard said that the girl was hired for $4 a week as cashier in August, 1907, and that she then said she was willing to work for that small salary because she did not have to pay any board. She was an efficient cashier, he said, and nothing wrong in her accounts was suspected until stock was last taken. Discrepancies discovered then led to her being accused.

Police Inspector Grace testified that Miss McLeod told him that she first took money to buy a gown for a leap year ball and had intended to pay it back. In finding probable cause for holding Miss McLeod for the February grand jury, Judge Reed said:

"I don't believe that anything more than $200 can be considered as having been taken."

CALL MEETING OF "L" STOCKHOLDERS

A formal call for a special meeting of stockholders of the Boston Elevated, to be held November 18, 1908, was issued to-day, at which stockholders will be asked to approve an issue of $7,000,000 new stock and determine the price at which the new shares shall issue. Books close November 13 to 19 inclusive.

SOCIETY SEES MILDRED POPE WEDDED TODAY

Well Known Smart Set Beauty Bride of Philadelphia Man at Longwood.

RECEPTION AT SOMERSET

Foremost among [illegible] bridals is that to-day of Miss Mildred [illegible] Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Pope of Brookline and [illegible], to Edward W. Moore of Philadelphia.

Miss Pope was known as the belle of her class when at the fashionable finishing school "Briarcliff." She was a bud of two Winters ago, and is well known to Boston's most exclusive circles.

The ceremony takes place in the Church of Our Saviour at Longwood at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and is to be followed by a large and brilliant reception at the Somerset.

The bride, who is given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white liberty satin trimmed with Duchesse lace, over which fell a long veil of heavy lace. Her bouquet was of valley lilies.

Her attendants whom she entertained at a dinner last night at the Lenox include Elizabeth Steinman of Lancaster, Pa.; Miss Bournis, Miss Thatcher and Miss Taylor.

The ushers are Samuel M. Peacock, F. Kimball Hager, Cushman Hartwell, Arthur Goodfellow, Henry Meyer, Charles T. Brown and Mr. Walker of Germantown, Pa., and John Johnson of New York.

After a bridal tour which will include Montreal and Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. Moore will reside in Germantown, Pa., where a handsome new home is being made ready for them.

SHIP'S BOILER BURSTS; 5 DEAD

NORTH BAY, Ont., Nov. 11.—The steamer Temiskaming was approaching the landing at Temiskaming last night when the boiler exploded, wrecking the steamer. At least five persons were killed by the explosion or drowned. Several of the passengers and crew were hurled into the water by the shock, and many are injured.

Owing to the remoteness of the scene of the tragedy details are lacking. A man named McBride, a hunter from the United States, is missing, and there is little doubt of his fate. J. Menard and T. Bergouhan, firemen, and two men whose names are unknown, are dead. Six are badly burned and several may die.

A special train was dispatched from Mattawa to bring the injured to that town.

RECORD CARGO ON WINIFREDIAN

With the hold stuffed with freight to the hatch covers, the Leyland liner Winifredian sailed from Boston shortly after the noon hour to-day with the largest cargo that the ship has taken across for over a year. The liner carried 130,000 bushels of wheat, 72,000 carloads of fresh beef, 750 live cattle, 600 tons of flour, 600 tons of provisions and miscellaneous quantities of lumber, hay, cotton and general merchandise.

Among the passengers on the ship was Rev. Jesse T. Smith of the American Board of Foreign Missions, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, and is on his way to Rangoon, Burmah, where Mr. Smith is a professor in the American College. Mrs. E. S. Davidson of Cambridge was the only other woman passenger on the Winifredian.

BIG CHAIN OF FORGERIES.

HUB MAN FEARS DEATH BAND IN POUREN TRIAL

Jan Osolin Refuses to Give Names of Refugees' Friends in Russia.

LIFE IN CZAR'S COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—In an endeavor to show that Jan Janoff Pouren was a brave and fearless soldier in the revolutionary army in Russia, and not a murderer and robber, as the Russian government contends in the extradition proceedings now being conducted before United States Commissioner Hitchcock here, the defense called a witness who testified that he fought side by side with Pouren in the Russian conflict waged by the revolutionary party.

This witness, Jan Osolin of Boston, told of fleeing to this country in 1895 because he feared, he said, that the Russian police would murder him. He made his testimony unusually dramatic by the fear he displayed on the stand lest by some inadvertence he might give the names of the leaders of the revolutionary movement. When asked why he feared to give the names, Osolin replied:

"Their homes would be burned and they would be murdered—my home was burned and I would have been murdered had I not escaped."

Both sides tried to induce the witness to give names and dates so that his testimony could be verified, but Osolin closed his lips tightly, gripped the arms of the witness chair firmly and doggedly shook his head, signifying that no power on earth could drag the names from him.

When speaking of his association with Pouren, Osolin spoke in freedom. He told of the election of Pouren to the revolutionary militia, which army, the witness said, was organized to combat the "Black Hundred" forces, then preying upon the peasants and farmers, and the barons and dragoons, who, witness said, aided in oppressing the working people.

Osolin related how he himself had been elected a member of the executive committee of the Socialist Democrat party and of the efforts of that party to secure higher wages for the working classes and to close the government liquor stores.

Osolin told of a battle that took place at Livaru in which Pouren fought, exhibiting exceptional bravery and courage in the face of sharp musketry firing. There was much testimony of the burning of homes, the persecution of farmers and the like, in Osolin's narative.

The life of Pouren in the woods when he had been made a fugitive was also described as the witness had known it.

With Osolin still on the stand, refusing to give names, the case was adjourned until to-morrow.

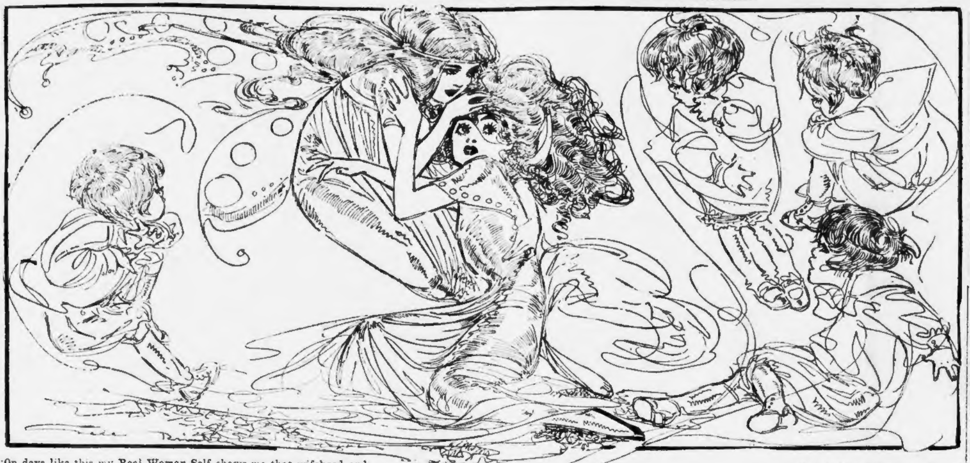
THE GIRL WITH A HUNDRED SELVES

The confessions of an unknown girl writer, in which she lays bare her inmost secrets

BY ? ? ? ? ? ? ?



"On days like this my Real Woman Self shows me that wifehood and motherhood are better than ambition and struggle."

Nell Brinkley's illustration of the work of an unknown girl writer.

My Real Woman Self

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THERE is a Self of me that in the twinkling of an eye can change the whole outlook of my life and make my boasted independence seem a wretched, monstrous thing.

It is a Self that seldom speaks, for I have hushed her voice so often she has grown used to silence and to suffering. But when she does rebel and shake off the restraining bands that try to strangle her, she pleads with greater passion than any other of my hundred selves.

And she puts her melting arms around me and breathes upon me and cries to me her cry of warmth and tenderness until my most determined resistance gives way and all my strivings and my ambitions of the world go down in a heap before her.

It is my own real Self, my Tender Woman Self, ardent, glowing, sensitive, the exquisite creature who is the sworn enemy of all my rugged fighting selves that battle in the world.

Every Pulse Tuned to Love

Oh, she is a creature fine and delicate indeed—marvellous in her weakness and softness as they are marvellous in their fury. Every pulse of her being is tuned to love and tenderness; all the tendrils of her heart reach for affection and the natural, womanly joys of life. Her very nature craves protection.

On days like this, when she takes control of me, she shows my Ambitious Self to be a monster; points to me the horror of the system that makes me struggle in the world with man and fills me with disgust for the strenuous, aggressive life I force myself to follow.

In one blinding flash she reveals to me the supremacy of her claims. I see as I have never seen before how the yearnings and impulses of my Real Woman Self have their roots deep down in the very origin of things; how they are fastened in the very soil of Creation; how they are moved upon by forces vast, primeval, all compelling; and I cannot escape them if I would.

And she implores me: "Don't crush out my life! Don't strive to strangle me any more! Don't you see you can't ignore my claims, unless you ignore life itself? Don't you see you can't kill me without killing yourself? Don't you see that woman's struggle for achievement in the world is just a hideous mistake; that it is warping her and changing her into a hard, unnatural creature?"

Hated by Her Fighting Selves

This is the signal for the rushing forward of my valiant fighting selves, who have been stamping impatiently in the background until now.

Oh, how they hate that weak, clinging, loving Woman Self of me that is their enemy! How fiercely they strive to conquer her! For, though she seems the weakest Self of all, they know she is the strongest, and they are afraid.

To-day they urge me with all their might not to listen to her pleading; they clamor in my ear, pulling me by the sleeve and warning me: "She's a coward—a little coward—that feminine Self of you. She's a voice out of the past, a tradition, a superstition. You've outgrown her, and you mustn't go back. Don't listen to her! Don't!"

And my Ambitious Self plunges into a war of words with my Woman's Self, challenging her to prove her argument.

"Nonsense!" he rages. "No woman ever yet was hurt by her struggle in the world with man. All that talk is baby twaddle, imbecile chatter. Prove it if you can!"

"Prove it if you can!" echoes my Warrior Self, while the contemptuous Man Self of me chokes with sneering wrath.

And my Tender Woman Self turns on them with flashing eyes.

"Prove it I can," she cries, "by this girl's own experience! Ask her what that experience has been. Make her tell you the truth, and not deceive you with pretended bravery. Make her tell you of her heart aches, her tears, her bitter sufferings. Make her admit her hours of terrible despair!"

"The struggle only strengthened her," insists my Warrior Self.

"It hurt her cruelly," sobs my Woman Self.

"It was her means of self-development—the greatest blessing of her life!" trumpets my Ambitious Self.

"But think of the sacrifice!"

"There was no sacrifice," answers the Man Self, coldly.

"No sacrifice!" repeats the Tender Woman Self of me with gasping breath. "Do you mean to say it is no sacrifice when a woman squanders her finest forces in misdirected effort? Do you mean to say it is no sacrifice when the whole order of Nature is reversed, and the creature who was made for love and happiness and a man's protection is forced out upon the battlefield to fight against him and against herself? Can you deny that this is so? And doesn't she fight Nature, too?"

She turns upon me now, and shakes me by the shoulders.

"Can you deny it?" she cries, with passion. "Can you deny the facts of your experience. Isn't it true that you must struggle to keep up the fight? Can you deny that this very day you cried out that you could no longer pretend?

Primeval Longing of Life

"Ah, you know, as no one else can know, how the world's rough edges hurt you; how you suffer from contact with the brutal, merciless things of life. You know, as no one else can know, how your whole being cries out for protection and for a woman's natural rights, every one. Speak the truth! Answer these frowning selves that seek to give the lie to what I say!"

"It isn't true. We won't believe it!" shouted the raging, fighting selves of me.

"It is!" I answered, fiercely, turning on them at last. "You have had your way. You have owned me, day and night. You have ruled me with a rod of iron, and compelled me to do your bidding. But you cannot silence my Real Woman Self, or break her power over me to-day!

"I am tired—tired of the brazen battlefield. I don't want to force myself to be a monstrous, unnatural thing, devoid of heart and sentiment. I don't want my nature to be warped and pulled out of shape in a world where selfish people push and jostle for supremacy. I don't want it! I won't have it, I say!

"Listen! For you shall hear the whole truth, every word. I want to be myself—my own Real Woman Self. I want to grow as God meant me to grow. I want wifehood and motherhood, and all the tender, marvellous joys of life.

"Yes, yes; you shall hear it! I want to live, I tell you—to live!"

(To Be Continued.)

To-day's Complete Short Story

They Always Find a Way

THE young man who owns an automobile soon learns to regard himself as a public utility.

Carl Van Horn, being of an obliging disposition, had cheerfully acted as chauffeur for the candidates of both political parties, for the Woman's Relief Corps and for the "fresh air orphans," besides taking at least three girls and the ice cream to every picnic of the season. Therefore he was not surprised when Harriet Thayer informed him that he would be expected to assist in decorating for the Hallowe'en party which she and Dorothy Hart and Irene Pilkin were getting up.

He was, perhaps, the more willing to lend his aid because he foresaw possibilities of a ride with Dorothy, unaccompanied by Harriet and Irene. This was rather a wild aspiration, in view of his former experiences with the three.

Those girls had been inseparable since their kindergarten days. Nobody ever thought of seeing one without the others; in fact, until recently, no one had particularly cared to see one without the others, but that was exactly what young Van Horn now desired—so far vainly—to do.

If he called at Dorothy's house, Harriet and Irene were almost certain to be there. If he wrote her a note, Harriet and Irene were more than likely to look over her shoulder while she read it. As for taking her to ride, evidently it had never occurred to them that Carl and Dorothy could enjoy a spin with the back seat of the car unoccupied.

Being, as has been said, of an obliging and courteous nature, Carl found it difficult to convey to them his real sentiments in the matter.

The Hallowe'en party was to be held at Dorothy's home, and when Carl arrived there on Saturday afternoon he found the living room a wild chaos of red and black draperies, stepladders, jack-o'-lanterns, brooms and paper witches and black cats.

"What do you think of our decorations?" asked Dorothy, who was busily carving carrots into candlesticks.

"Very classy," he replied. "Only one thing lacking—Autumn leaves. Suppose you and I——"

"Now, Mr. Van Horn," interrupted Harriet, "if you'll mount this ladder I'll pass the tacks. Yes, of course, we want Autumn leaves. Just a little higher on the left. Now, move your ladder over here."

Released at last, Carl again sought Dorothy. "Now, about those Autumn leaves," he began.

There was a piercing shriek from Irene, who had been arranging the dining room table. A perfectly horrible worm, it developed, had crawled out of the huge cabbage which she was using as a centrepiece. The worm was more easily disposed of than Irene's tremors. She was quite overcome at the thought of being left alone with the cabbage. Did Mr. Van Horn think it contained more worms?

Harriet came to the rescue. "Now," she said, "we're all ready to go after those Autumn leaves."

"But I thought—you see—wouldn't it be better——" stammered Carl.

"Why," said Harriet, "you suggested it yourself. But if you don't want to go——"

"Certainly—of course," said Carl.

So four persons instead of two filled the car with Autumn leaves.

When the last crimson and yellow boughs had been tacked into place Carl approached Dorothy with the light of desperation in his eye.

"Too bad," he said, "that Harriet and Irene have to go. I've just had an idea. You and I can carry it out."

A becoming flush stole over Dorothy's face.

"Girls," she called, and something in her voice told him that she understood his meaning, and was going to help him, "you can't stay after 6, can you?"

"Not a minute!" they declared. "We have to eat dinner and dress and——"

"Awfully sorry," said Dorothy. "But then we don't really need you. Mr. Van Horn suggested that——" She looked at him inquiringly.

"That we take some cardboard and cut out cupids and hearts and"——

"And hatchets and cherry trees," put in Dorothy with a daring twinkle in her eye.

"For a Hallowe'en party! Absurd!" cried the others in a breath.

"Absolutely essential! But don't wait!" And Carl fairly closed the door upon their protests.

Then he turned to Dorothy. "Hurry," he said, "and get your wraps! There's just time for a spin in the car before dinner."

On the porch they met Harriet and Irene. The latter had forgotten her handbag.

"We have decided," said Carl, with brazen effrontery, "that hearts and cupids would be out of place at a Hallowe'en party."

Then the need of dissimulation seemed to vanish suddenly.

"Dorothy and I are going for a ride," he announced. "We'll see you later."

Harriet stared at the departing automobile in dumb amazement, but Irene said: "Well, I never in all my life saw Dorothy Hart act like that before!"

His Grammar Gets Overhauled, and He Now Talks Correctly—When His Wife Lets Him Talk at All

FORSYTHE '10

"Made me feel like a star pupil at Matteawan." "Was I right! Not on your latest bound Century."

"MORNIN'," greeted Billy, as Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife entered the train at the last station. "How's things up at the tepee?"

Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife looked at the "L" guard with a sad and faraway expression in his eyes. "Billy," he replied, in the tone of one announcing a calamity of calamities, "my wife has a new fad. She's joined a Culture Club, and it seems that I am a Glaring Example of how careless people become in their manner of speaking. I say, have you ever noticed anything wrong with my grammar?"

"Why, sure I haven't," admitted Billy. "I didn't know nothin' was the matter with the old lady. What ails her?"

"I wasn't referring to my ancestry, Billy," said Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife, smiling patiently, "but merely to the choice lot of English I use. It's plain to be seen that you're not a grammarian."

"No, sir-ree," broke in Billy, with emphasis. "I'm a Pennsylvanian, Lehigh County. But what's this here grammar thing that's got the madam doin' a war dance?"

"Why, it seems that I am altogether too negligee in my manner of conversation, so to speak," explained Young-Man-Afraid-Of-His-Wife.

Is a Daughter of Pure Diction

"Thank you, Billy; that makes me feel better. Well, since my wife joined the Daughters of Pure Diction, I've been getting it right and left. With a copy of Webster's Unabridged on her knees, she puts me through a course of verbal gymnastics that would cause old man Noah to sit up and make sundry observations, and it almost brings the tears to my eyes to discover the number of innocent words I have brutally been shoving into the wrong places of my everyday conversation.

"'Lay,' for instance. Last Saturday, when I arrived at the tepee, tired out from the day's work, said I to the ruler of the roost, 'My dear, I'm all in. I think I'll lay down on the sofa for a while.' You should have heard what happened, Billy! When the smoke cleared I was repeating after the Madam: 'I will lie on the sofa,' 'I will lie on the sofa,' 'I will lie on the sofa,' till I felt like a star pupil at Matteawan."

"What do you know about that?" said Billy in disgust. "Women is the fluky things for fair. There's the Skirt, now—she's kind of got that language thing stickin' in her craw, too. When she goes for me I just says: 'Up the street with that line of talk. If I knows enough to say "Step lively," "Let 'em out first," or "Umph-fort-nint an' Thir' Avinoo, change for the Sub," I don't need to worry about no fancy flings in English.

When She Scalped His Grammar

"With that, Bo, she beefs, good and plenty. 'William,' says she, 'I didn't believe you would have went to that extreme. You're not to be outdid for makin' fore-paws,' she says. I say, Bo, what's a fore-paw, anyhow—French for cat?"

"Well, I guess it belongs to the same family, Billy. But, as I was about to tell you," continued Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife, "the first night that the chieftess of the tepee scalped my grammar she took no less than seventeen cuts at it.

"I inadvertently mentioned the fact that I had BEEN to see Jones. Was I right? Not on your leather-bound Century. 'You have BEAN to see Mr. Jones,' she snaps back, pronouncing it like a vegeterian. 'No, Minnehaha,' I answered sweetly. 'I did not go as far as Boston—only to Jones's office on Nassau street.'

"'In Nassau street,' she fires back. Bean is the correct pronunciation. Billie Burke says it, and actresses all speak so correctly,' says she.

"'And now, while we're on the subject,' says she, 'I think I shall thoroughly overhaul your grammar. Of late it has grown shabby and run down at the heels, and what it needs is rejuvenating.' And then, Billy, I commenced to find out what a menace to Society I had become."

"Come" for "Came" Is Criminal

"How's the re-whatyoumaycallit comin' on?" queried Billy. "Does the clerks know what you mean now when you says, 'Take a raise in salary,' any better than they did before? or do it get you your hand-out any quicker at your noon beanery? Not so's you can notice it, I bet. Say, what else good English does she learn you?"

"It's a criminal offence to say 'come' for came, and 'done' for did is punishable by nothing short of a sleepless night—I know whereof I speak! One must forever be on one's p's and q's about one's u's and w's. 'Toosday,' 'Noo York,' 'noospaper,' 'furnitoor' are all in the bad, and now the muscles around my mouth are strained from the prunes and prisms effect of trying to pronounce such nefarious words as those as they should be spake."

"Gee, them's hard lines," decided Billy, after they had whizzed by a station in silence. "Sometimes I thinks the Skirt may try and monkey with my language after we get hooked up. On the square, Bo, is there anything wrong with my manner of talkin'? No? I thought there weren't. And, anyhow, what good does all this learnin' of correct languages do you?" he demanded.

"I haven't quite figured it out," confessed Young-Man-Afraid-Of-His-Wife. "The Madam keeps me awake half the night teaching me to speak correctly, but what's the use, I want to know, when I'm never able to get in a word of my brand new English edgewise?"

And Young-Man-Afraid-Of-His-Wife made his way out of the car, while Billy called after him:

"I say, Bo, does the hens lie many eggs out your way?"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A MATTER OF LOVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of twenty and love very dearly a widower of thirty-two, with one child. He thinks the world of me, but his position is not what I would like to have it. Another girl who loves him is trying to gain his affections, having a good chance to accomplish it, as she works for him. Is it the proper thing for me to go with him, knowing his position does not warrant what I should have to have, and that if I give him up the other girl might get him? My folks have very strong objections to him, and he is not allowed to call at the house.

WORRIED.

IF you love him well enough to ignore his position, marry him. If you do not love him, give him up, and let the other girl have a chance. Perhaps you can win your parents' consent if you let them see that you are in earnest.

Cook Book Free for Recipes

THE writer of every recipe printed receives free a copy of the BOSTON AMERICAN'S Economy Cook Book, a substantial indexed blank book, especially designed for preserving these household gems in permanent form. All recipes should be addressed to Economy Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

BREAKFAST MUFFINS

ONE cup of sugar, one egg, one tablespoon melted butter, one pint of sweet milk, one cup flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of salt.

MRS. J. E. PROCTOR.
No. 332 Elliot street, Newton Upper Falls.

SQUASH BISCUIT

ONE cup cooked and strained squash, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons milk, half yeast cake, one quart bread flour. Mix the same as any bread at night, and have hot at noon the next day. This recipe makes two dozen.

MRS. WILLIAM J. BROWN.
Spring street, Mansfield.

GINGERBREAD

ONE cup molasses, one tablespoon lard, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon allspice, one cup flour, one teaspoon soda dissolved in one cup of water.

MRS. NELLIE CUMMINGS.
Washington street, North Easton.

COTTAGE PUDDING

ONE cup of flour, one cup of butter, one cup of milk, three-quarters cup of sugar, three cups of flour, one egg, a pinch of salt, three teaspoons of baking powder.

MRS. EDWARD WATERS.
No. 46 Linden avenue, Somerville.

FILLING FOR LAYER CAKE

HALF pound of figs, one cup of stoned raisins; cut the figs in halves and steam raisins and figs for one-half hour and chop fine while warm. Beat the white of an egg to a stiff froth, add two-thirds of a cup of sugar, one teaspoon of vanilla, mix with the figs and raisins and spread between the layers of cake.

LAYER CAKE.

Half cup of butter, one cup sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, whites of four eggs, two cups of flour, one heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Bake in layers as for jelly cake. The above makes a rich filling in place of jelly.

MRS. CHARLOTTE NOYES.
Rear No. 38 Monmouth street, East Boston.

Can't You Stir Up Bunk?

BUNK is out for a brisk constitutional. In the language of Silk Hat Harry, the gay pup will "beat it" up the highway. Can you start him agoing?

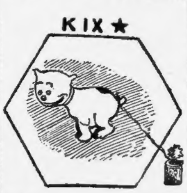
Cut the picture into pieces, of any sizes or shapes you like? Then fix them in a new arrangement which will show Bunk on the run.

The tin appendage is not intended to embarrass our friend, Bunk, but is just thrown in the picture to suggest the following conundrum:

Why is the star in the title like the tin can?

One hundred puzzle books will be distributed among those sending best answers to the cut-up puzzle and the conundrum, addressed to "Puzzle Editor," in care of this paper.

If you have received Puzzle Book No. 1, state so in your answer, and should you again be a prize winner, you will receive Book No. 2, which gives answers to the puzzles in Book No. 1 and contains a further collection of puzzles, tricks and conundrums.



Conundrum solvers have ventured guesses as follows:

Dear Puzzle Editor—I should say that the can was like the star because it was bound to occur at night.

THOMAS WILLIAMS.

Dear Puzzle Editor—The can is like the star because it hangs in space.

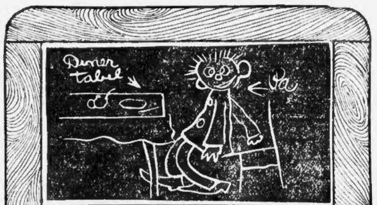
GEORGE COMBES.

Dear Puzzle Editor—The star is like the can because it guides the traveler on his way.

RUTH HENDERSON.

Bobbie's Slate---By William F. Kirk

Pa Has Some Friends in for Dinner and Proves That He Is a Connoisseur



This picter on my slait is my Pa setting at the tabel after dinner.

THE picter on my slait today is Pa setting at the tabel after dinner. All the folks wich was invited to dinner has went hoam & Ma & me is in the other room so all thare is in the picter is Pa & the tabel.

It was a vary fine dinner wich we had. It was awful good to eet & thay had sum different kinds of wine, too, but I dident have any of the wine. Pa sed Wine is a mocker for a young kid & I dident git eeven a glass.

The dinner wich Pa gaiv was gaiv for a broker naimed Mel Williams & he was thare with his wife & thare was a nother cuppel wich had a long naim wich I doant remember.

Pa tould Ma all about the dinner long beefoar it was time to have it, so Ma had all the meet & potatoes & other things all reddy beefoar the company caim, & Pa brought the wine hoam. He carried sum of the wine under his right arm & sum of it under his left arm & moar of it under his vest.

Pa Gives Out a Few Doants

Beefoar we give this dinner, sed Pa, I wish to tell you & littel Bobbie how to act at the tabel. These peepul wich as folks is going to enter-tain is vary classy peepul, & you must watch every movement. I will first tell you sum Doants, Pa sed, & the rest is up to you:

Doant keep yure elbows on the tabel, sed Pa, beckaus we live in a small flat & have a small tabel, & if you keep yure elbows on the tabel thare wont be any plais to put the roast.

Doant diskuss religun or politiks, sed Pa, beckaus our guests go to a different church that we do, if they go at all, Pa sed, and politiks is over now.

Doant shriek with fright wen I plunge this knife into the hart of the duck, sed Pa, beckaus the duck wont say anything & if you cant be as gaime as a duck you ought to leeve the tabel.

Doant lick up too much of the wine, beckaus times is still hard & after Mister Williams & me & thare frends has gone to it, thare wont be much left for you & littel Bobbie.

Then Ma Beegan to Talk

When Pa got thru talking Ma began to talk. All right, Mister Chesterfield, Ma sed, we have carefully heeded yure advice, and we will ack in such a manner that the blush of shaim will not cum to yure brow wen you look at yure fambly. We will be thare with all the frills, sed Ma, & I only hoap you will ack as nice as me & littel Bobbie. What kinds of wine did you bring hoam?

Well, sed Pa, heer it all is. First, of course, is the cock tails. I found myself vary hevvy laden on the way hoam, Pa sed, so I had to drink sum of the stuff & keep my arms from gitting tired, so I drank the cock tails, as thay was the hevviest.

This bottel heer is sherry, sed Pa, & this other bottel is Saw-turn, & this is sum Twinkel-Dinkel-Heimer Rine Wine, wich is 12 $ dollers a quart after the bill is paid, Pa sed. These other two (2) bottels is Shampaine, sed Pa, of a very rare vintage. I am a connosewer on wines, sed Pa, & I bet you our friends will be glad thay caim.

Wen the company caim Pa tould sum stories & then he wanted to sing a song beefoar the supe caim.

Pa Sang Wile Eeting His Supe

We sat down to the tabel & the supe caim in the middel of the first verse, so Pa sang the rest of the verse & the korus wile he was eeting his supe. The last part sounded the best.

The dinner was a pritty good dinner, & Mister & Missus Williams & thare frends went hoam erly beckaus Pa wanted to sing the second verse & the second korus wile he was eeting Rockfort cheese. So Pa was left alone at the tabel, & that is the picter wich is on my slait.

Tomorrow's Best Bargains

Money-Savers for Thrifty Shoppers Selected by an Expert

VISIT THE MILLINERY parlor at Chandler & Company's Tremont street shop to-morrow if you would like to purchase a smart hat at moderate cost. They have arranged for a special sale of hats at $8 and $10 that are worth a great deal more. You will find a splendid showing of the season's most popular shapes, including the Marie Louise flat dome crown mushroom, and rolling brim sailors, with soft satin and smart quills, wings and novelty effects, also many stylish tailored hats of large or medium size and the practical close fitting shape, in stylish modes.

JUST THE APRON FOR ALL-ROUND housework will be found on sale to-morrow at Filene's for 35 cents, or three for $1, that have always sold for 45 cents each. These aprons are made semi-fitted, with wide armholes and strap at waist line and come in a large assortment of neat percale patterns, including shepherd checks. Almost two hundred aprons will be offered at this price.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO BUY FLANnelette underskirts at a bargain shop at MacDonnell's Tremont Temple Store to-morrow, as they will place on sale for one day their entire lot of 50 cent skirts and offer them to readers of this column as a "special" at 39 cents each. They may be had in plain white with tucked flounce, or pink and blue stripes with buttonhole stitched flounce.

AT JAMES A. HOUSTON'S THEY WILL close out about four dozen ladies' two-piece house dresses at 59 cents that are really worth $1. They are made of white ground percale with the neatest black polka dot or small figure. The waist is tailored with wide plaits over shoulders and has three-quarter length sleeves with two-button and cuff, and the skirt is cut full with deep flounce at bottom. All sizes. In the same department some excellent values in expensive short kimonas may be had. About four dozen kimonas, made camille style, of gray flannette; also light weight Persian material, that were formerly 39 cents, will all be closed out at 12½ cents each.

THE SHEPARD Norwell Company will offer readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN two particularly good bargains on Thursday. Just twenty-five fine white satin damask bed spreads made for full size bed, in a very pretty pattern, with handsome centre piece and double border in floral and conventional design, with cut corners and heavy fringe all round—a regular $3 spread—will be marked to $2 as a "special." The same department has about twenty-eight dozen bleached pillow slips made of good quality cotton that have never sold less than 12½ cents each, to be placed on sale at 7 cents for quick clearance.

TO-MORROW AT HENRY SIEGEL'S about seven dozen white muslin skirt aprons, made sixty-five inches wide by thirty-six long, will be marked as a "special" to 19 cents each. These aprons always sell for 29 cents and are considered good value at that. They are just the kind of aprons for waiting on table, etc., as they cover the whole skirt.

SPECIAL TO THURSDAY SHOPPERS. At Vorenberg's Novelty Shop on Winter street, about one hundred sets of teaspoons will be offered at 42 cents a half dozen that are exceptionally good value. They are Roger's silver-plated spoons, handle of French gray finish in very pretty carnation design. At this price they are expected to sell quickly, as they are bargains.

IF YOU SHOP AT GILCHRIST COMpany's to-morrow and would like to purchase all linen scarfs, shams or centre pieces at a bargain, do not neglect to see the lot that will be reduced to 98 cents for Thursday's shoppers. About two dozen Irish linen bureau scarfs, made 18x54, hemstitched all round with imported filet net embroidery, and about the same number of scarfs to match, made 30x30—each piece worth $2.50—will all be closed out at the one price. These are excellent bargains.

Hammering Out the Problems

The Nation Is a Great Anvil—Humanity Is the Power—We Are Hammering Out the Future on this Anvil Nation of Ours

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Election time has gone by once more; there is disappointment for some of us, and gratification for others.

We can all return now to real life, real work, the work that lasts forever, the work of construction, improving.

This nation of ours is an anvil. And on the United States anvil, as on others among civilized people, human beings, human intelligence hammers out the big problems.

Every man does his share of the work; each is an atom of force that helps to build up the power of the race.

"The weakest among us," says Ruskin, "has a gift, however seemingly trivial, which is peculiar to him, and which, worthily used, would be a gift also to his race forever."

The gift that each of us brings to the race gives the power to the hammer. Everything is power in the intellect of man. Each citizen, if he uses worthily his power of thought, of inspiration, is a builder of the future.

We must all realize that this nation IS an anvil for the hammering out of problems. We are not put here simply to enjoy ourselves, to make money, to leave it to our children, to wear fine clothes, and finally to sink into the ground in a beautiful silver-plated coffin.

This wonderful land is not a mere gift to the material side of men. It was not created merely to fatten them and make them wealthy.

Our nation is our anvil, and our pride should be in working out with thought, labor and patience the problems as we meet them, forging a future worthy of the human race.

There are other anvils and hammers hammering away. The German nation is a great one, and France is another. Each nation works, on the whole, for the betterment of all humanity. Each hammers at its task, forging the new idea; each gives to ALL every new thought and new invention.

The peoples of the earth to-day are, in their important work, brothers engaged in friendly, useful rivalry. They are destined one day to be one great united family, and that day may not be so very far off.

More and more men are beginning to feel that brotherhood is the permanent destiny of man—war and hatred are passing, savage monstrosities. We see proof of this in our biggest, strongest and seemingly most selfish men now. They fight for wealth, gather it at any cost—yet within them there is a growing sentiment that makes them GIVE AWAY their wealth almost as eagerly as they gather it.

Nations at one time met face to face only when they met to murder each other on the battlefield. Now they meet in peace conferences, in friendly international games, in travel that mixes up travellers of all countries that return to their homes with new ideas, new respect for other lands and deeper love for their own.

Progress is steady in the life of this generation, which has been wonderfully rapid. Men travel around the earth in a few days. They talk to each other and recognize each other's voices a thousand miles apart. Men on land talk to their friends on the ocean, sending thought thousands of miles across the water with the tamed power of the very lightning that once only filled men with superstition.

Men cannot long remain apart, the earth cannot long behold human beings fighting each other, when every day the genius of man brings men closer together, makes them depend upon each other, enables them to help each other.

Life is interesting and beautiful when we look at our earth and our humanity as a whole. Think of this beautiful planet, bathed in the sun's light and warmth, sailing majestically in its wonderful spiral course through infinite space! What a glorious home for the genius of man! What a glorious privilege to belong to the race of men, a race MASTER OF ITSELF AND OF ITS DESTINY, MASTER OF THIS VERY GLOBE UPON WHICH MAN FIRST APPEARED NAKED, SHIVERING, IGNORANT AND BRUTAL!

Here in America our opportunities are great and our privileges are great. Every American should determine to have HIS force felt in the blows that destiny's hammer strikes upon the anvil. We should all realize that this is THE day, that this is the time for each man to work and do his best. A great thinking American, Emerson, said: "One of the illusions is that the present hour is not the critical, decisive hour. Write it on your heart, THAT EVERY DAY IS THE BEST DAY IN THE YEAR. No man has learned anything rightly until he knows that every day is doomsday."

Great work will be hammered out on this anvil of ours. We men of to-day little dream of the future that is being wrought, shaped, now, in our time.

The greatest man of to-day in wealth and opportunity would seem a mere beggar compared with the humblest man in the days that are to come.

We are the successors here of red savages that murdered and scalped each other, starved in Winter, gorged themselves in Summer, lived and died with their eyes upon the ground.

We shall have successors compared with whom WE shall seem infinitely lower than the lowest savage compared with us.

And the creation of that great future race IS OUR WORK TO-DAY. That is the beautiful part of it. We are creating the unbelievably glorious human race that is to come. Just as surely as the great oak is all in the insignificant little acorn, just so surely a glorious human race and human destiny are shut up, confined in the narrow kernel of our small and wretched civilization of to-day.

Readers, let every one of us do his share. Each of us must live a dual life—first the life of the individual, meeting the little problems, attending to the little duties in the individual field. And every one of us must live THE LIFE OF THE RACE, working and thinking with the human race, contributing to that greatest power in the world, HOPE, ASPIRATION, FAITH in the destiny of man.

"I slept and dreamed that life was Beauty;
I woke and found that life was Duty.
Was then thy dream a shadowy lie?
Toil on, sad heart, courageously,
And thou shalt find thy dream to be
A noonday light and truth to thee."

A Man's Ideal Woman

She Must Be Both Saint and Siren, "Sensible" and Stylish; in Fact, a Paradox

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

"JUST what is a man's ideal woman?" has been asked.

Observation leads to the following conclusions on that subject:

A man likes a woman of sensible, healthful ideas regarding dress; a woman who avoids the new fashions, when they are in any way striking or pronounced; who abjures big hats, high heels, a small waist and all the other follies of fashion.

But when he takes out this ideal to any public place of amusement he acts very much ashamed of her, and bestows all his attention upon the women who are attired as fashion dictates.

He assures his Ideal that he is disgusted with these frivolous women; yet he has eyes for no others, and continually talks of them afterward. They seem to obsess his mind.

A man likes a woman who can cook, and sew, and bear children and stay at home, and be domestic and lead the simple life.

But he leaves her at home, and goes seeking distraction among women who are up to date; women who wear evening gowns and are accomplished; women who play cards and are amusing and entertaining.

Likes Her; but Leaves Her

A man likes a woman who ruins her skin by soap and water, and who uses no cold cream, or powder, or delicate lotions to preserve it, and who accepts middle age and obesity as her natural portion, and who tells her years on every occasion. He says such a woman is "sensible and wholesome."

But when she has reached the obesity age, and has settled down to wrappers and congress gaiters, he finds himself very lonely and dull, and to escape boredom he goes hunting a companion who has kept her complexion and her figure, and who makes him proud when he takes her out.

He finally pensions his "sensible" wife and induces her to divorce him, that he may possess the kind of woman he despises.

A man likes a woman who keeps the house in perfect order and helps with the cooking, but he wants her to be always presentable when he brings home his friends, and to appear always fresh and rested.

He likes a woman who does not talk much; but he wants her to be talkative and entertaining when she can amuse his friends, or cater to his pride.

Saint and Paradox

A man likes an economical woman, but he wants one who indicates, in her appearance and her entertainments, that she is opulent and generous and possessed of exquisite taste.

A man likes a woman to be modest and refined to a pronounced degree; yet he leaves her to enjoy her modesty and refinement alone, while he finds amusement with women who have a keen sense of humor, and who do not object to a story with a bit of double meaning at the end.

A man likes the born mother type of woman; one who is ready to give her youth, and beauty and vitality to her children. But he wants her to keep young and well, and to be the sweetheart and companion always.

In fact, a man wants a composite woman; one who is able to change her color like the chameleon, and to be always the thing his varying moods demand. In fact, man wants a saint, a siren and a paradox.

Arms and the Man

By C. B. Quincy

THE United States troops in the Philippines are to be equipped with bolos, thus being enabled to meet the bloodthirsty natives they may have to fight on their own terms.

• • •

The London War Office, not to be outdone by Yankee enterprise, has armed and equipped an army corps in Australia with boomerangs. It was pointed out to the London War office that there is no one for the army corps to fight, but General the Marquis of Mars, who is Third Secretary of Agriculture for War, pointed out that in the absence of any regular enemy the corps could fight ostriches, against whom a charge could be brought of impersonating major-generals by wearing the plumes sacred to that high office.

The first field manoeuvres of the boomerang men have already begun, but as the new weapons were quicker than the eyes of the soldiery considerable damage was inflicted.

Rudyard Kipling, who went to Australia to witness the manoeuvres, has written a stirring poem, entitled "There and Back," which is said to describe the flight of a boomerang intended for a lance corporal, but intercepted by the poet with all his old-time brutal force.

• • •

King Leopold of Belgium has equipped his Congo troops with rubber knives. The knives are very difficult to keep sharp, but as he still maintains Gatling guns in the field for disciplining of his native troops the experiment has made no perceptible dent in the Congo death rate.

• • •

General Baron Fuji Hyama of Japan, who is expecting a daily brush with the Beloochistanese, has ordered several large cotton manufactories in Connecticut to make him a full set of banners with which to arm his troops in the event of hostilities.

The Beloochistanese have never fought with anything but banners and paper dragons since the days when Confusius wrote his treatise on the efficacy of bluff, and the Japanese believe that enough display of that kind will quickly subjugate the natives and will enable the Japanese to shoot their powder and shot East.

• • •

Geronimo, the Apache chief, is said to have strongly advised the Secretary of War to arm the Indian troops with bows and arrows for use in fighting the Indians. The wise old chief argues that the Indians would have felt far more at home fighting against bows and arrows, and as they had already provided themselves with powder and shot, and guns to shoot them with, the result of the Apache uprising might have been far different.

It is believed in Washington that thousands of Apaches would have been alive to-day had the old chief's advice been taken.
